SCHEME TOLD TODAY AT MEETING

Passage of U. S. Funds For Local Work Is Before Senators

A hearing conducted by army engineers in Orange county, in respect to the county flood control program now before the senate commerce committee, is being held today. This development came today when the matter was discussed at a hearing in Los Angeles, devoted chiefly to the Los Angeles and San Gabriel river flood control projects.

At the same time, members of the board of supervisors here today said adoption of the program proposed at Washington, with a dam on the Santa Ana river at Prado, would be a piece of unexpected good fortune for Orange county. The army has suggested inclusion of a $300,000,000 flood control bill, with Orange county paying $342,000 for rights of way.

Sees Hearing Here

At the Los Angeles hearing, Captain Morris W. Gilland of the army engineers said that, assuming the flood control bill is approved by congress with the Orange county project included, it is very likely a hearing will be held in Orange county by the army engineers. At this hearing local persons could appear and make recommendations, which would be of assistance to the army board in passing on the project.

Captain Gilland also said that while no definite information is being made public, he presumes that the bill now in Washington relates to the same project that lost out at a bond election here last December. Definite information on this point is in the army files, he said, but is not ready for release at this time.

Water Shortage Told

Orange county leaders are interested in a Santa Ana river dam at Prado rather than at Jurupa, farther up in Riverside county.

Clarence Dougherty, Artesia rancher and tax student, told the vividly of the water shortage in the coast areas of Los Angeles and Orange counties. He gave figures showing water levels are

Vote Indictment Of Mrs. Hewitt

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31. (AP) — The San Francisco county grand jury voted late last night to indict Mrs. Maryann Cooper Hewitt with mayhem in connection with the sterilization of her daughter, Ann Cooper Hewitt.

Mrs. Hewitt, critically ill in Jersey City, N. J., is already charged in a police mayhem warrant. The grand jury action, attorneys said today, was intended to speed her extradition to face trial here.

GRANT TABOR RE-TRIAL IN ARSON CASE

Verdict of Guilty Is Reversed By District Court of Appeal

Another involved legal battle in an attempt to send Edward L. Tabor, former Huntington Beach apartment house proprietor, to San Quentin for the incendiary burning of his beach apartment house on June 7, 1932, was in prospect today, as the district court of appeal reversed the superior court verdict finding Tabor guilty of arson, and remanded the case to the Orange county courts for re-trial.

The arson case has been in the courts since 1932, when John Rose and Henry Eli, Huntington Beach, were convicted of burning the building, and sentenced to six and one-half years in state prison for the crime.

Trial Began July 29

The case was re-opened last year when the two men wrote from San Quentin prison that they had been hired by Tabor to do the burning for the sake of $4,000 insurance, that he had hired a lawyer and promised to protect them, and that he had "double-crossed" them by allowing them to serve their sentences.

Tabor and Jess Sibley, a tenant, were brought to trial on July 29, 1935, and after a court session of 23 days both were found guilty. Sibley, after serving 60 days in the county jail, was granted probation for five years. Tabor appealed his case. Rose and Eli, in the meantime, having served three years, testified here against Tabor, and then were granted parole.

Evidence Sufficient

The appellate court decision, according to Deputy District Attorney Preston Turner, who prosecuted Tabor, found that the evidence on which he was convicted was sufficient, but reversed the superior court decision on the single grounds that he had not been allowed to explain why he hired an attorney to defend Rose and Eli.

Mr. Turner said today that he has the alternatives of retrying Tabor, or of appealing to the state supreme court for a hearing of the case. He said he would not make his decision until he had read the appellate court decision more thoroughly.

Fraud Citations Against Lotteries

WASHINGTON, March 31. (AP) — The postoffice department today announced a "fraud" citation against the National Conference on Legalizing Lotteries, headed by Mrs. Oliver Harriman, New York society leader, and the Golden Stakes with which Al Smith, jr., son of the former New York governor, is associated.

Karl A. Crowley, solicitor of the department, announced that a fraud hearing on the Golden Stakes would be held April 1 and one on Mrs. Harriman's organization April 2.

The organizations have been ordered to show cause why they should not be barred from receiving mail because of using the mail in a lottery scheme.

Goodbye, Boys; Come Back When You Cool Off

WASHINGTON, March 31. (AP) — Anger which has smoldered in Iran (Persia) since two Maryland traffic policemen arrested the Iranian minister last October, burst into the open today.

Iran closed its legation and consulates in this country. Its diplomats in Washington and consular offices in New York and Chicago packed up to leave for home.

Persia was hurt, authoritative sources said, because of articles in the American press which were considered disrespectful to the Shah and his country. Apparently, however, the diplomatic reproach was a direct outgrowth of the Maryland incident.

MORE RAIN IS DUE TONIGHT

County Gets Nearly One Inch; Beach Sections Receive Downpour

Traveling on the heels of a gusty spring wind, the second downpour within a week visited Orange county last evening, leaving nearly an inch of rain generally over the county and giving citrus orchards a much-needed soaking.

Weather experts predicted additional showers for tonight with clearing weather Wednesday. "Unsettled and cooler tonight, with showers in southwest portion of state" was the official forecast.

Citrus Growers Happy

Citrus growers were happy today with the heavy fall, as considerable irrigation costs will be saved. Citrus-goers, however, were less joyful as a result of the downpour, as many pairs of new spring shoes suffered from muddy fields surrounding the show last night in Santa Ana.

Campbell Station, east of Orange, reported a heavy fall last night, with 1.28 inches. Newport Beach received 1.10 inches, San Juan Capistrano 1.04 inches and Santiago Dam 1.13 inches in the storm. Santa Ana received .83 inches for the storm, bringing the season's total to 8.54 inches as compared to 16.78 at this time last year. Normal is about 12.50 inches.

Storm General

The storm was general over the state, with foothill sections near Los Angeles suffering small damage from runoff which, however, was more than compensated by benefits to agriculturists of that section. In Glendale more than two inches of rain taxed the drainage systems. Sandbags were used to protect stores in the business district. Minor cave-ins were reported in drainage projects being constructed in the metropolitan area.

High winds blew down a power line between Santa Maria and Atascadero, leaving a large section without electric service, Associated Press reports said today.

CONGRESSMAN FLAYS NEW PROPOSAL

Change in Tax Plans Opposed; Predicts Rift in Ranks

WASHINGTON, March 31. (AP) — Repudiation of the Townsend leadership by the organization's club members was predicted today by Representative McGroarty (D., Calif.), if Dr. F. E. Townsend deviates from his proposal for a transactions tax to pay $200-a-month pensions to everyone past 60.

McGroarty, author of legislation to put the Townsend plan into effect, yesterday accused Townsend of "talking like a fool" after the elderly California physician had disavowed interest in the "private political ambitions" of the representative.

Townsend visited his national headquarters briefly today but left almost immediately. Aides said he had "gone out of town for a rest."

"I no longer care what Dr. Townsend, or other officials of the old age revolving pensions think," McGroarty said. "Millions of people in Townsend clubs throughout the country rallied around my bill, which also has the support of 63 congressmen."

He declared Townsend "seems to have indulged" a proposal by Sheridan Downey, Townsend attorney, which provides for issuance of tax exempt bonds instead of a transactions tax to raise funds for the pensions.

Opportunity 'Destroyed'

"This agitation and these differences will do one thing and that is to arouse the people of the country to press for adequate old age pensions."

He added that, if Townsend and Robert E. Clements, resigned co-founder of the movement, had not had differences, he believed 200 candidates pledged to the Townsend plan would have been elected to congress in November.

"If they have destroyed anything they have destroyed that opportunity," said McGroarty.

Freight Lines Service Extended

LOS ANGELES, March 31. (AP) — The state railroad commission authorized the Southern California Freight Lines today to extend its auto truck service to Newport Beach, Balboa Beach, Costa Mesa, Corona Del Mar, Laguna Beach, Aliso Beach and Dana Point.

The firm now operates between Los Angeles and San Diego. The Santa Fe railroad, the Pacific Electric Railway and the Pacific Greyhound Lines opposed the application.

Prison Sentence Given Mrs. Glab

LOS ANGELES, March 31. (AP) — Mrs. Hazel Belford Glab lost her plea for a new trial today and was sentenced to five years to life imprisonment for the second degree murder eight years ago of her husband, John I. Glab, retired circus, Ill., druggist.

Death By His Hand

The man who will throw the switch tonight to send Bruno Richard Hauptmann to his death in the electric chair is Robert F. Elliott (above), 67-year-old New York electrician who is official executioner for four eastern states.

EXECUTIONER GETS $300

NEW YORK, March 31. (AP) — Robert G. Elliott, 67, the "man who walks alone," had a $300 job in Trenton, N. J., before him today.

Official executioner for five states, Elliott was to earn his pay in grim fashion—by "spinning the wheel" that would spin Bruno Richard Hauptmann and Charles Zied to oblivion.

In Richmond Hill, the Long Island community where he has lived with his wife and two children for many years, little is known of Elliott.

In 1928, however, his home was damaged by a bomb thrown from an automobile and subsequent publicity disclosed the quiet homelife was the executioner who had sent Sacco and Vanzetti, the Massachusetts radicals, to their deaths the previous year.

For years Elliott has acted as executioner for New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

Hauptmann Only 6 Steps From Death

TRENTON, N. J., March 31. (AP) — Down through the lower end of the city the curious and the idle moved today to look upon the sprawling brown prison where Bruno Richard Hauptmann will die tonight—unless the unexpected happens. It stands in a cheerless neighborhood of old brick and frame houses, of vacant lots and factories. Across the way from the entrance lie the dark silent waters of the old Delaware and Raritan canal, and a railroad where locomotives puff and grunt, shunting box cars to sidings.

A Dreary Place

Today the place seemed drearier than ever. Police came out this morning and roped off Third street to keep back traffic. The street is to be patrolled all day and into the night, and only those with passes may enter the lines.

The official witnesses will come to the prison at 7:15, hear a brief talk on how to behave, and then in silence—executions somehow silence everybody—will walk through the prison yard to the little brick house where Hauptmann and Charles Zied, Philadelphia gangster, wait the hour of going to the chair.

Zied is to go first.

Half Dozen Steps Away

Hauptmann waits in cell No. 9, not more than half a dozen steps away from the chair.

He will wear a white shirt and blue denim trousers, slit in the right leg, and the top of his head will have a patch of fresh baldness. He will sit down. The straps will be fixed in place, the electrode against his leg, the steel cap against his shorn head. The mask will drop.

One moment of life—then death.

'He's Innocent!' -- Bruno's Mother

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)

KAMENZ, Germany, March 31. Frau Pauline Hauptmann, bending over a washbasin in the little yard of her home today, declared she refused to believe that her son, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, must die in the electric chair tonight for the Lindbergh kidnap-slashing. Informed of the New Jersey court of pardon's denial of clemency to her son and his condemnation to be electrocuted in the state prison at Trenton, N. J., for the murder of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby, the 70-year-old Frau Hauptmann exclaimed:

"I doubt that this decision will mean the final doom of my innocent boy Bruno! He is not guilty. They cannot do it!"

The grief-stricken mother was scrubbing clothes when informed of the impending execution of her son.

LAST HOPE OF MERCY GONE FOR BRUNO

Execution Stay Denied; Condemned Man Refuses Food, Breaks Down

By DALE HARRISON

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)

TRENTON, N. J., March 31.—The iron nerve of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, with death in the electric chair only a few hours away, snapped today, but his sobbed story of innocence shrilled through the death house unbroken and unchanged.

"I am innocent," cried the condemned Lindbergh baby killer, even as final tests were being made a few feet away of the chair in which he is to die shortly after 8 o'clock for the shock crime of the Sourland hills.

Last Hope Gone

His last hope was gone. The pardons court, which could have saved him, refused to do so. Gov. Harold G. Hoffman, who dared political disaster in an attempt to solve the Lindbergh case in the face of a Flemington jury's verdict that the case was already solved, said he would not again interfere.

Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard today denied a stay of execution for Hauptmann in what was conceded to be his last legal recourse.

In denying the stay, Justice Trenchard, who presided over the Flemington trial, referring to the repudiated "confession" of Paul H. Wendel upon which the plea was based largely, declared: "They (the Wendel papers) do not justify any arrest of the execution."

His prosecutors were unchanged in their conviction that Hauptmann, and Hauptmann alone, was guilty as proved.

In the face of it all, and with the knowledge that a confession or partial confession was his only hope of escaping the chair, the 36-year-old prisoner cried out today to Col. Mark O. Kimberling:

"I am innocent; but I am not afraid to die."

"Any change in my story would be a lie," he told the warden.

Hauptmann was weeping when Col. Kimberling went to him in the death house this morning. The former German machine gunner and one-time petty criminal in his native Germany, had slept only fitfully through his last night of life.

Writes to Mother

He spent much of the time between 10:30 last night and 5:30 this morning pacing his cell, talking about his family with his guards, and writing a letter to his old and impoverished mother in Germany.

It took Col. Kimberling nearly five minutes to calm the sobbing prisoner. Hauptmann was crying as a man stripped of all hope cries.

"The state will never solve the case by sending me to the chair, for I am not guilty," Hauptmann was quoted as saying, in a written report submitted to the warden by his guards.

"He said he wished he could appeal to the public over the radio

Craig's Appeal Denied By Court

WASHINGTON, March 1. (AP) — The supreme court today "dismissed without prejudice" an appeal by Gavin W. Craig, former California state judge, and Joseph Weinblatt, both of Los Angeles, from one year jail terms and $1000 fines imposed for alleged attempts to "corruptly obstruct justice."

Appearing in person, Craig asked the court to hold in abeyance its decision on whether to pass on the controversy until a new appeal could be acted on by the ninth circuit court of appeals.

"I simply won't believe what you tell me," she muttered grimly. "The execution has been confirmed and then postponed so often. Don't you think politics are at the bottom of it all and that they may decide he is not guilty?"

WITH THE NORTHERN ITALIAN ARMY, Gondar, Ethiopia, March 31.—This important strategic city at the head of Lake Tana fell into the hands of an Italian truck column led by Achille Starace, secretary-general of the Fascist army today.

The mechanical cavalry roared its way southward along the Sudanese border, cutting off all Northern Ethiopia from supplies which previously had been delivered over caravan trails from the Sudan.

Important to British
This Italian drive is by far the most important international move yet made in the present war because of the significance to the British of the Lake Tana region.

Gondar is only a few kilometers from the head of Lake Tana, the source of the Blue Nile, and, subsequently, the Nile which gives the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan and Egypt its water supply.

The entrance into Gondar gave the Italians control of one of the richest regions in Ethiopia and also a portion of the head waters of the Blue Nile as coming from Lake Tana, center of British power interests.

Informal sources recalled there were two treaties of 1906, between Britain, Italy and France, and of 1935, between Britain and Italy, governing this territory west of the main northern front.

These treaties gave Italy a zone of influence in the territory, but specified that Italy should not construct dams to obstruct the waters flowing from Lake Tana into Egypt. Britain also had the right to build a motor road from the Sudan toward the lake.

Haile At Front
The capture of Gondar coincides in the general picture with considerable activity on the left extremity of the northern line where reports have it that Emperor Haile Selassie himself has taken the field in the general vicinity of Quorom in a desperate effort to halt the Italians on their advance that has been all-conquering since the victory at Amba Aradam Feb. 10.

It is considered likely that the next—and possibly the last—big struggle in the north will be fought in the vicinity of Quorom if Haile Selassie can gather an army together to make a stand.

"This fellow stepped right up to John Jackson, the range boss, and said he was Ronald Lowell Prince, of Boston, and he wanted a job as a cowboy. He said he didn't want any pay, as he would be amply repaid by the thrill of living this rough life for a few weeks.

"Right away Wild Bill said he wanted to be generous to a stranger and would be willing to lend him his own horse, the Strawberry Roan.

"Some of the punchers caught the wild bronc that had just thrown Bill, and in a couple of minutes everything was ready. The stranger took off his coat and gave it to Wild Bill to hold until he returned from a canter. Then he fearlessly approached the bronc from the right side.

"Hold on there, son," shouted one of the hands, "don't you know which side to get on a horse?"

"Well, really," said the dude, "if the horse doesn't know any more about it than I do, what difference does it make?"

The punchers told him to go around to the left. They were still holding the roan. The tenderfoot climbed aboard. Getting well seated, he inquired of the cowboy who was earing the horse, "What do I do now?"

"Just ride 'im, son, that's all. I'm turning 'im loose!"

The Westminster nightclub club today was faced with the possibility of losing its ball park, as the result of the concerted drive of a number of citizens to throw open the park to the public, tear down protective fences, and eliminate the charging of admissions to nightclub games.

Headed by a citizens committee of six residents of surrounding areas, a delegation from Westminster territory presented petitions bearing 250 signatures to the board of supervisors today, protesting the leasing of any part of the Westminster county park to the ball club interests.

Spokesmen for the petitioners decried the "monopoly" of county property for private use they claimed was represented in the situation, stating that the ball park proper was the only improved part of the 9½-acre park tract, and that the public was not allowed its use.

Counter Petitions
Counter-petitions were presented at the same time from the Midway City chamber of commerce and Westminster business men, urging that the ball park be allowed to continue in the same fashion as before, and urging that a lease be granted those representing the ball club, a member of the National Night Ball league.

The board next Tuesday will consider a lease asked for by the club, which would give them the privilege of playing regularly scheduled games two nights a week, and holding practice sessions in the park, for a percentage of the season's net proceeds.

Show Old Grant
The citizens committee, represented by the Long Beach law firm of Marshall and Farnham, presented a grant drawn in 1908 by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Harris, in which the property on which 150 feet of the ball park is situated was given to the county "for park purposes only."

It was generally agreed that the ball club would be forced into the position of seeking a new ball park or giving up its National Nightball franchise, if it no longer were able to charge admissions for its games.

The petitioners, whose chairman is E. G. Finley, also claim that while the agreement made by the club with the county does not grant an exclusive right to the ball park, it amounted to a virtual exclusion of the public, as it was used every night in the week either for practice or for games.

They said they would return to next Tuesday's session of the board with 2000 signatures on their petitions. The supervisors postponed any action until next week. Park Commissioner Willard Smith was not present, as he was attending a water meeting in Los Angeles.

The park under protest has been located in the same place since 1887, and is one of the oldest pleasure parks in the county. It has recently been improved with CWA and WPA funds, although free entertainments, concerts and other features of the WPA are not presented there as money is charged for the ball games held in the park.

Charges of grand theft filed against Guy C. Clawson, 42, and Ray Larson, 32, of Los Angeles, were reduced to petty theft Monday when the pair appeared for their preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace K. E. Morrison. A complaint charging petty theft was filed against Larson in the Orange justice court after the grand theft charge had been dismissed in Santa Ana.

In the case of Clawson, the petty theft charge constitutes a felony since he has a prior conviction on a felony charge. The pair are accused of obtaining money from Mrs. Minnie Holmes, Santa Ana, under false pretenses. The action was the result of an asserted illegal real estate deal in which Mrs. Holmes authorized Clawson and Larson to sell certain properties for her. The two defendants assertedly obtained a contract from Mrs. Holmes to purchase property at Twenty-nine Palms. Mrs. Holmes testified she believed she was signing a grant deed, transferring her property to the defendants for the purpose of completing a sale.

Urge Concerted Plan to Develop County Businesses
General plans to facilitate exploitation and development of existing businesses in Orange county were discussed Monday by the directors of the chamber of commerce here. The belief was expressed that there is a large opportunity for expansion of businesses already here.

Rex Kennedy, president, and Howard Wood, secretary of the chamber, were instructed to contact the Associated Chambers of Commerce with this idea in mind. The possibility of such a project on a county-wide basis was envisioned.

dropping five feet yearly. Something will have to be done to conserve local water, he said, because Metropolitan Water District water cannot be used profitably by agriculture.

Mr. Dougherty recommended extensive use of underground water storage, coupled with construction of reservoirs in proper places by the federal government. He also said the whole future of the beach sections depends upon agriculture because oil well production in future years is likely to play out.

Major Theodore Wyman, jr., in charge of district engineers in the army for Southern California, presided at the hearing. He said the purpose of the meeting was to discuss the federal army flood control project for the Los Angeles and San Gabriel rivers, as authorized by the Scott bill. Prominent Los Angeles officials and leaders expressed their views on the projects, which would cost about $70,000,000.

Members of the Orange county board of supervisors were interviewed today by The Journal in regard to the flood control setup as it exists today.

Mitchell in Favor
"It looks like a good thing," said Chairman John Mitchell, in commenting on the setup proposed at Washington, whereby the government would finance construction of the projects here and the county would pay for rights of way. This cost would be $3,420,000, the army engineers estimated.

"I think they are talking about the Prado site on the Santa Ana river," said Chairman Mitchell. No definite statement as to the site has come from Washington. The Prado site is the one favored by Orange county, while the other possible site is located well within Riverside county and is known as the Jurupa site.

"If we could get this project, with only the rights of way to pay for it looks to me like a good deal."

Lyon's Attitude
"I'd be tickled to death," said Supervisor LeRoy Lyon of Anaheim. "I think the people would approve such a proposition."

Supervisor W. C. Jerome of Santa Ana said that promotion of the present program apparently originated at Washington and that the supervisors have not been contacted or taken any action in regard to it. He said, however, that if anything develops in connection with the project, in which the supervisors can be of service to the people, the board will be ready to cooperate.

Supervisor N. E. West of Laguna Beach said he believes the program is contemplating the Prado site and that on this basis the army engineers' project would be a good proposition for Orange county.

West Comments
"This seems to be the program which we originally proposed to the army and which they approved," he said. "That program called for the Prado site."

Mr. West also said he believes the county, under this scheme, could carry its end of the financial load for much less than $3,420,000. The rights of way for the Santa Ana river dam and reservoir at Prado could be secured for much less than has been estimated, he believes. He said he thought the county's purchase of rights of way could be handled for as little as $1,500,000.

Supervisor Willard Smith of Orange said that if the government approves the program, with the Santa Ana river dam located at Prado, he believes the project would be a satisfactory one for the county, on the basis of providing the rights of way as suggested by the army engineers.

CONVICT SEAL BEACH MAN OF ASSAULT

A jury which deliberated for five hours on a mass of conflicting testimony concerning the stabbing of Jess Johns, Seal Beach, Feb. 9, last night reduced a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, a felony, against Ralph W. Mayes, Seal Beach electrician, and found him guilty of simple assault.

Johns was cut and stabbed about the head and throat following a fight in a Seal Beach night spot with the defendant. The quarrel grew out of an argument over a dice game.

Dozen Witnesses
The plea of defense Attorney Z. B. West, Santa Ana, that issues in the case were befogged by unwilling witnesses was taken to heart by the jury, in returning its verdict.

More than a dozen witnesses paraded to the stand during the afternoon to testify as in all Seal Beach criminal trials, that they were "looking out the window," "had their backs turned," or could not hear what was going on at the time of the quarrel.

Not Same Knife
A knife was introduced as the weapon with which Johns was stabbed. Dr. Ernest F. Green, Seal Beach physician who dressed his wounds, said it was not the knife he had seen on the night of the fight. Mayes himself said he had been "kicked in the ear" during the brawl and could remember nothing of the events of the evening. There were no eye-witnesses to the actual stabbing.

Superior Judge Homer G. Ames set tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock as time of pronouncement of judgment. The maximum penalty for simple assault is six months in the county jail, instead of a prison sentence.

FORUM TO HEAR DR. RAIGUEL

Impressions of Fascist Italy and of Premier Mussolini will be given tonight by Dr. George Earle Raiguel, lecturer and authority on international affairs and personalities, at 8 o'clock in the Fullerton high school auditorium, before the Orange County Forum.

Dr. Raiguel spoke on the subject "Fascist Italy: My Interview with Mussolini" at assembly of Santa Ana Junior college students this morning. In his travels abroad, the speaker has interviewed Von Hindenburg, Briand, Ramsey MacDonald, Lloyd George and Stalin, among other world celebrities.

Calvin C. Flint, junior college dean of men, will preside at the forum this evening. Mrs. Harold Nielsen will give 15 minutes of organ music, preceding the address.

Lindy Forgets Execution By Working On Invention

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)
LONDON, March 31.—Work on a mechanical heart and lungs was Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's chief interest, persons close to him said today, on the day Bruno Richard Hauptmann's heart was to be finally stilled for the slaying of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby.

The Hon. Harold Nicolson, one of the colonel's closest friends in this country and now his landlord, said Lindbergh has spent most of his time working on this scientific instrument since his arrival in England more than two months ago.

Nicolson said the Lindberghs "will certainly refuse to do anything when Hauptmann is executed," as he is condemned to be tonight in the state prison at Trenton, N. J.

"They feel that tragic episode deeply, and have resolved that the only way they can forget it is by never mentioning it under any circumstances," Nicolson said.

For the last several weeks, the Lindberghs and their second son, Jon, have made their residence at the fourteenth century home, "Long Barn" at Weald, Kent, which they rented from Nicolson.

Missionaries Due Here From China

On a year's furlough from church work in China, the Rev. and Mrs. H. W. Worley are expected to arrive Saturday or Sunday in San Pedro to visit Mrs. Worley's father, G. B. Wilksie, and brother, Scott McFarland, Santa Ana. Accompanied by one of their children, the Worleys will be joined here by the other two when their school in China closes.

Dr. Worley will speak Sunday at the First Methodist church. As a delegate from China, he will attend the Methodist general conference in Columbus, Ohio, this year with the Rev. Dr. George A. Warner, Dr. James E. Dunning and J. Frank Burke, lay delegate. Dr. Worley is head of the Foochow theological seminary.

S. B. Supervisor Is Exonerated

SANTA BARBARA, March 31.—C. L. Preisker, chairman of the board of supervisors, stood vindicated today of 55 grand jury indictments charging violation of state law by signing county warrants drawn in favor of a Santa Maria produce company in which he was alleged to have interests.

Judge Pat Parker of Mono county exonerated Preisker by sustaining the demurrer to the charges, submitted by the lawyers for the chairman of the board of supervisors. Judge Parker held the indictment as prepared was insufficient.

Between January, 1934, and January, 1935, retail prices of meat in Rio De Janeiro rose 11 per cent; of vegetables, 20 per cent; of eggs, 54 per cent; and beans, 120 per cent.

CHAMBER PICKS WOOD AGAIN

Howard I. Wood, secretary of the Santa Ana chamber of commerce, was starting a new term of office today following his reelection yesterday by the chamber's board of directors.

Mr. Wood came here from Redwood City about one year ago. He had been secretary of the chamber of commerce there. Since his arrival here the chamber has reorganized itself. Directors are now elected on a new basis whereby their terms expire at different times, thus keeping experienced members on the board to serve with newly-elected ones.

Rhine 'Armistice' Hitler's Proposal

BERLIN, March 31. (AP)—A four-month "armistice" with a three-man international commission to control both the German and the French-Belgian sides of the frontier was reliably said tonight to be Adolf Hitler's counter-proposal to the Locarno powers in the Rhine-hand crisis.

During the "figurative or moral armistice" Germany would agree not to increase her Rhineland troops, but France and Belgium would have to give the same guarantee. This plan was flown to London today by Joachim von Ribbentrop, Hitler's special ambassador.

Epidemic Attacks 120,000 in City

MILWAUKEE, March 31. (AP)—Health officials today expressed belief the epidemic of stomach disorders which caused two deaths and attacked an estimated 120,000 persons had reached a turning point.

Dr. John P. Koehler, health commissioner, said Chicago authorities professed fear the malady might spread to that city through Lake Michigan, drinking water source for both cities. But Dr. Koehler contended it was apparently transmitted by air or direct contact. He figured one-fifth of Milwaukee's population was afflicted.

MORE ABOUT HAUPTMANN

and say that if anyone knows anything about the case, let him come forward and tell, the guards' report added.

"He said he wanted his son (Manfred) to grow up and be honest and to know his father was innocent. He said he got convicted for having money without knowing what kind of money it was."

Col. Kimberling talked with Hauptmann for half an hour. He came to the details of the "last meal."

"I'd like to have that last meal sent to Dr. Condon," Hauptmann replied.

He referred to Dr. John F. Condon, the Lindbergh ransom intermediary, whose testimony that Hauptmann was the man to whom he paid $50,000 ransom was a vital link in the circumstantial evidence that put the Bronx carpenter where he is today.

Hauptmann ate no breakfast. Eats Hearty Breakfast
No so, Charles Zied, the Philadelphia gangster who will precede Hauptmann to death in the chair tonight. Zied ate heartily of cereal, eggs, potatoes, toast and coffee.

C. Lloyd Fisher, chief of defense counsel, called on Hauptmann during the morning and said later: "It looks very bad, but until the sentence is carried out, I wouldn't say that I have given up hope. While there's life, there's hope, and you can't tell what might break in our favor."

Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, who visited her husband yesterday, will not see her husband again alive, apparently.

Hauptmann was prepared for the chair this morning, a spot on his head being closely shaved.

Zied, like Hauptmann, told Colonel Kimberling that when he (Zied) goes to the chair the state will be taking the life of "an innocent man." Zied killed a policeman in Camden, N. J. Hauptmann told his guards, they reported:

"I have saved three lives in my life, and they take mine on built-up evidence." His reference apparently was to his claim that he rescued three persons from drowning.

THEFT CHARGES ARE REDUCED

Charges of grand theft filed against Guy C. Clawson, 42, and Ray Larson, 32, of Los Angeles, were reduced to petty theft Monday when the pair appeared for their preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace K. E. Morrison. A complaint charging petty theft was filed against Larson in the Orange justice court after the grand theft charge had been dismissed in Santa Ana.

In the case of Clawson, the petty theft charge constitutes a felony since he has a prior conviction on a felony charge. The pair are accused of obtaining money from Mrs. Minnie Holmes, Santa Ana, under false pretenses. The action was the result of an asserted illegal real estate deal in which Mrs. Holmes authorized Clawson and Larson to sell certain properties for her. The two defendants assertedly obtained a contract from Mrs. Holmes to purchase property at Twenty-nine Palms. Mrs. Holmes testified she believed she was signing a grant deed, transferring her property to the defendants for the purpose of completing a sale.

Urge Concerted Plan to Develop County Businesses
General plans to facilitate exploitation and development of existing businesses in Orange county were discussed Monday by the directors of the chamber of commerce here. The belief was expressed that there is a large opportunity for expansion of businesses already here.

Rex Kennedy, president, and Howard Wood, secretary of the chamber, were instructed to contact the Associated Chambers of Commerce with this idea in mind. The possibility of such a project on a county-wide basis was envisioned.

Marilyn Miller Is Seriously Ill
NEW YORK, March 31. (AP)—Slight improvement in the condition of Marilyn Miller, stage and screen actress, was reported today by her physician, Dr. W. L. Whittemore, after it was feared she might not live through the day.

She remained semiconscious under treatment at Doctors hospital, suffering from a "very serious toxic condition," the physician said. She entered the hospital two weeks ago for tonsillitis.

Chamber Wants Another Day at Botanic Gardens

The chamber of commerce wants another Santa Ana day at the Rancho Santa Ana Botanic Gardens. Last year Mrs. Susanna Bixby Bryant was hostess to hundreds of persons from Santa Ana who went to the rancho to see the wild flowers and other native California plants, for which she has made a refuge.

The event was a success, and attracted considerable attention to the gardens and Santa Ana. The chamber adopted a resolution asking Mrs. Bryant if it will be possible to hold another Santa Ana day this year.

Film Propaganda
RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Films prepared by the ministry of labor, commerce and industry, with dialogue in Portuguese, Spanish, French and English, are being shipped to New York, London, Paris and other world centers to propagandize Brazil.

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor
By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

IN STIRRING up the past week's welter on the county desk, turning over old papers, and showing unwanted literature on the floor, we find an unprinted epistle from our amateur correspondent, Milt Danielson, from Santa Ana gardens.

Two weeks ago come next Saturday, we printed Milt's news, with the remark that next week we were expecting a nice juicy murder from his territory. Here's his reply:

"I wish to express my sincere appreciation for publishing last week's news. I've been looking for a murder story, but haven't quite found it yet. I have obtained the news that follows this week."

And, here's his news for last week on his paper route:

Mr. Beswick (supervisor of Orange county schools) visited Diamond school Wednesday.

The Diamond P. T. A. visited Winbigler's Funeral parlor Friday at 7 o'clock.

Third quarter reports were taken home Tuesday.

Duane Adams, fifth grade pupil, has moved to 1920 South Parton street.

Fifth and sixth grade boys are planning to beautify Diamond's school yard by planting flowers.

The fifth and sixth graders wrote letters to Allene Anderson (who has been confined to her bed because of illness but has been able to take a few steps lately) Wednesday. She is having a home teacher while ill.

Then Milt thanks us again, and starts out looking for next week's news.

We'll wait awhile for that murder, Milt. No hurry!

Balboa Islanders, led by Joe Beck, are asking the government for bigger and better beaches for their island.

They contend that the reason most folks bought places on the island was to be surrounded by beaches. Now, those very beaches are in danger of extinction, they claim, and they're urging U. S. engineers to do something about it.

Here's what Sam Meyer says about Joe and the beaches in his Newport News:

"Joe Beck is still agitating for a wider beach around Balboa island. He remembers the time when, as a kid, he learned to swim and row and sail from those friendly shores and he thinks the quiet beach is the principal charm of the place. We remind him that the harbor was dredged to accommodate sea-going yachts but he says 20 times as many islanders have row boats and canoes as have yachts and that everybody has kids. If it hadn't been that Jo started harping on this subject five years ago, we would think that 2-year-old boy of his was the source of his enthusiasm."

You know, this business of gathering something printable is funny. Take the other day at Balboa, for instance.

Wandered around awhile and all we could see was a gang of youngsters in bathing suits. So finally ended up in the harbor master's office.

There we found Tommy Bouchee looking real official behind his desk. Yachting cap'n everything. Alongside was Robby Robinson, yachting m-a-g-a-z-i-n-e proprietor, working a crossword puzzle.

"Hi," we said.

"What's new?" we asked Tommy—just a hint, you know, to find out what was happening.

"Nothing," he said, with finality. "Listen," we pleaded, "Isn't there something we can print?"

"What's a four-letter word meaning a clock on a ship? I oughta know that," Robby interrupted.

And so everyone forgot about news and started worrying about the four-letter word. Finally we all gave up, and got back to the subject of news.

Tommy still refused to remember anything worth printing, and was just getting ready to express his opinion of newspaper people in general and one in particular, when someone else dropped into the office to remark about a new arrival at his home. The talk immediately veered to cigars. Knowing that news was completely forgotten, we left. Robby was still mumbling into his crossword puzzle.

What IS a four-letter word for a ship's clock, anyway?

Perhaps we'd better address this to Chat Congdon, Capistrano gage-man, who residents claim has a future in grand opera. But, if anyone else knows anything about the subject, they're free to speak up!

We're looking for a young crowd. Two young crowds, in fact.

Carl Fisher, who shoves things around in The Journal's back shop, would like to catch a very young crowd. So would we. Young crowds make fine pets, if one likes birds that steal anything that can be carried.

Capistrano, someone says, is the county headquarters for the birds. So, if anyone knows where to catch young crowds, we'd appreciate it if they'd let us know. We'll promise to give 'em good homes

POSTER CONTEST STARTED FOR HARBOR CELEBRATION

AWARDS WILL BE MADE BY CHAMBER

Students to Take Part In Plans for Huge Newport Event

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—A poster contest designed to commemorate formal opening of Orange county's $2,000,000 pleasure harbor May 23-24 will be started at once in this district, and will close April 14, chamber of commerce officials announced today.

The contest is only one of many plans for the huge dedicatory event, it was announced.

Students of both elementary and high school are eligible to enter the contest, which will be conducted under auspices of the Newport Harbor chamber of commerce.

H. L. Sherman, former city councilman, early commander of the Newport Harbor post 291 of the American Legion, author and noted traveler, is offering a total of $10 in prizes. Five dollars will be offered for first prize, $3 for second prize and $2 for third prize.

A like amount will also be offered by the chamber for prizes for the contest, which will be considered under auspices of the Newport Harbor chamber of commerce.

The posters must be 14x21 inches. Colors are limited to three, one for background and two for decorations and printing which must suggest date and the harbor opening. Slogans will be considered in the awards.

Lily Lahti and Eva Hite, art instructors at the high school and grammar school, will assist in the judging.

In addition to the contest, many other plans for the celebration are being made. Harry Welch, secretary of the Newport Harbor chamber of commerce, said today.

California, Nevada and Arizona have been invited to attend the fete, as well as the governor of Lower California. A huge parade of boats and many water contests and boat races are scheduled for the two-day event.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZES TOLD

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO.—Mrs. Ruth Stewart, superintendent of the primary department of Community church Sunday school, presented attendance awards to pupils at the assembly period Sunday morning.

Receiving bronze pins for six months regular attendance were Clemencia Corbett, Jean Watkins, Bernice Watkins and Gloria Niddet. A silver pin was presented to Betty Inman for a nine-month period of attendance. Mary Margaret Cook and Martha Jean Evans received a gold pin and certificates for one year's perfect attendance at the local church.

The attendance contest between the "Cubs" and "Cougars" is nearing completion. The Cubs, children's classes, are leading by a substantial margin. Last Sunday 24 new students enrolled. A dinner will be given the winners by the losers.

The Rev. Drury Haight, pastor of Eastminster Community church, occupied the pulpit of the local church at the morning worship.

Plans have been completed for the annual meeting of the congregation for tomorrow night, in the hall of the local church. A pot-luck dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock. Organizations of the church will make their annual report, and election of elders will be held. It is reported that the pastorate committee has come to a decision as to a permanent pastor for the church. They will submit their choice to the congregational meeting.

Instructions for Voting Given

ORANGE.—City Clerk T. H. Elijah issued instructions to those who wish to vote by means of absentee ballots. Registered voters who expect to be out of the city on election day, April 14, may apply for ballots at the city hall to Thursday, April 9, and may vote at the city hall until the day of election, he said. Ballots cast by persons out of town must be received by Mr. Elijah on or before Monday, April 20, to be counted, he stated.

Calendar Club Meeting Held

ORANGE.—Calendar club members met with Mrs. Martha McDonald Monday afternoon at her home, 393 South Olive street.

The hostess served a two-course luncheon to Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. William Barnes, Mrs. Claudia Boyer, Mrs. Margaret Tulene, Mrs. Belle Condon, Mrs. Florence Ober, Mrs. Charlotte Adams and Mrs. C. L. Benson.

Student Home For Vacation

SPRINGDALE.—Miss Mary Ketter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ketter, is spending Easter vacation with her parents. Miss Ketter is a student at Pomona college.

Seamy Past Of Laguna Is Revealed In 'Coastlines'

By McDONALD WHITE

Digressing from the moment from high-powered building boom talk, which is definitely a reality, and weather chatter, which is either cloudy or sunny, a phase of Laguna's seamy past might not be out of order, or even out of date.

It's all about liquor and rum runners. A flare for the dangerous, shoot-it-out days of prohibition. Back in the days before Laguna graduated into a sixth-class city this "seamy" coastline was the scene of considerable sub-rosa drama. For the curious observer, those days spelled color and romance not soon forgotten. And the plucking of a few choice bits might be fun.

There's the time, just 10 years ago, when the lovely Pacific bestowed upon our comely shores a heavy dose of fine champagne and liquor straight from Mexico. The sun beamed down one morning upon a scene as novel as anything in Gulliver's Travels. Bright and early—it had to be early because the constable finally arrived—the cases bobbed serenely in the breaker line, awaiting transportation to various homes throughout the town.

Merely to state that the next few days were epic is an understatement of the first order. They were colossal. But we're getting so that both schools may have the opportunity of working for the same cash prizes.

The posters must be 14x21 inches. Colors are limited to three, one for background and two for decorations and printing which must suggest date and the harbor opening. Slogans will be considered in the awards.

GARDEN TOUR PLANS TOLD

Beach Club to Visit S. A. Canyon Property as Monthly Project

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Eighty registrations have been made by local residents for a tour through the Rancho Santa Ana Botanic gardens all day Thursday. The gardeners will meet at the chamber of commerce at 9 a. m.

The event, sponsored as one of the monthly programs of the Huntington Beach Garden club, will be one of the outstanding programs of the year. Visitors will be guests of Mrs. Susanne Bixby Bryant.

Mrs. Gay M. Hamilton, hostess chairman and her committee will be in charge of the luncheon which will be held in the picnic grounds of the natural gardens. J. Sherman Denny, local landscape architect, will lead the caravan on the tour.

Other guests were Mesdames Darsch, El DuBois, Leonard Olson, A. E. Nearing, W. Berry, Pearl Davidson, Bud Berry, Edith Scofield, Charlie Witty, Ira Heard, Bill Starkey, Ethel Johnson, Zack McIntosh, Marion Umphress, Harvey Nearing, Orville Baker, Harry and Helen Baker, William Coplin, T. C. Natland, Jack Hale, Jess Robertson, George Hapes, Ray Fisher, William Fisher, and Misses Eleanor Hayes and Mildred McClain.

SHOWER HELD AT GROVE

GARDEN GROVE.—Mrs. Fred Darsch and Mrs. Joe McClain entertained at a shower party recently at Mrs. McClain's home on Emerson street in honor of Mrs. Lester Heard.

Appropriate games were enjoyed with the prize going to Mrs. Lowell Jaynes and Mrs. O. Hunt sang, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Charles Lamb. A desert course climaxed the evening.

Other guests were Mesdames Darsch, El DuBois, Leonard Olson, A. E. Nearing, W. Berry, Pearl Davidson, Bud Berry, Edith Scofield, Charlie Witty, Ira Heard, Bill Starkey, Ethel Johnson, Zack McIntosh, Marion Umphress, Harvey Nearing, Orville Baker, Harry and Helen Baker, William Coplin, T. C. Natland, Jack Hale, Jess Robertson, George Hapes, Ray Fisher, William Fisher, and Misses Eleanor Hayes and Mildred McClain.

Zooming back to 1936, rum-running is still a vital issue, although no longer does Laguna's built-up shoreline offer the same attractions as 10 years ago. The coast is well patrolled by revenue officers now. Everything has changed.

Little old Laguna is growing up fast and, as many currently believe, too furiously. But young moderns are cheering.

G. G. CLUB TO MEET FRIDAY

GARDEN GROVE.—Miss Dorothy Kents, county librarian, will speak on "Library Work" at a meeting of the Garden Grove Women's Club club at the clubhouse Friday at 2 o'clock. The program is in charge of the librarian at the Garden Grove branch, Mrs. B. A. Wisner.

Music will include vocal numbers by Leland Green, high school music instructor and a group of his girls' glee club members. Tea will be served at the close of the program.

MEASLES CLOSE S. C. SCHOOL

SAN CLEMENTE.—The grammar school here did not hold classes Monday morning, on account of quarantine for an epidemic of measles. According to a report received here the school will remain closed until further notice.

To date 40 cases have been reported, and the school was closed as a precautionary measure against the spread of the malady.

Matrons' Club Meeting Planned

WESTMINSTER.—The Young Matrons' club will meet Thursday at the home of Mrs. Chester Campbell in Midway City. Founders' day will be observed and officers for the coming year will be installed.

Mr. and Mrs. Orion Bebermeyer were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kurtz in El Modena Friday evening.

Smeltzer Pair Visit in South

SMELTZER.—Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Pyle, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Snyder, Buena Park, spent Sunday in Fallbrook. On Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Pyle and Mr. and Mrs. Snyder will go to Huntington Park to attend a White shrine installation ceremony.

Brotherhood to Meet at Mesa

COSTA MESA.—Election of officers will feature a meeting of the Costa Mesa Men's brotherhood in social hall of the Community church, Secretary Paul Fisher announced today.

A pot-luck dinner is also scheduled for the evening, it was announced.

LOWER GRADES STANFORD UNIVERSITY.—Since Stanford University permitted enrollment of women to increase from 500 to 1,200, grade averages have dropped steadily. Dean of Women Mary Yost reported.

Pageant Of Nations To Be Grove P.-T.A. Feature

GARDEN GROVE.—With a cast of 90 students from the Washington school, the musical pageant, "The Summoning of the Nations," will be presented at the meeting of the Garden Grove Grammar school Parent-Teacher association at the Washington school at 2 p. m. Thursday. Miss Faire Virgin is directing the production, assisted by other teachers of the school and the music supervisor, Miss Opal Kinn.

Speaking parts in the production will be taken by Maxine Chapman, Betty Ates, Leona Blair, Jack Jordan, Barbara Laird, Betty Jean Sullivan, Billy Faires, Donald Jesse, Dicky Pallett, Allen Echols, Billy John Davis, Dorothy Miller and Bernice Mutz.

Dancing the minuet will be Dixie Pat Moran, Jean Holt, Georgia Jean Longson, Sadie Campi, Jean Kellogg, Audrey Hawkins, Thelma Swenson, Janet Smiley, Doris Stark, Betty Rae Barker, Maxine Rysman and Betty Rae Solter. Betty June Willingham will dance the Highland Flair, and Isabel Orona, the oriental dancer of India. Italian folk dancers will be Bertha McDonald, Betty Hauck, Faith Jenkins and Marilyn Rojas.

Other numbers will be given by the Girls' glee club, sixth grade chorus and orchestra. All parents and friends of the school are invited to attend the meeting, the association president, Mrs. D. S. Jordan, announced.

During a business meeting following the program, officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

NEW PRODUCER IN H. B. FIELD

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—The old Huntington Beach oil field has a new producing well. The W. K. Oil Co. has just put its new producer on the pump for a production of about 200 barrels of oil and 20 barrels of water.

S. S. Wold and P. A. Kingsland, operators of other wells in this and other Southern California fields, are owners of the well, located on Golden West avenue.

The Twentieth Century Oil Co. is reported to have had a successful water shut-off and are looking for production. The well will soon be put onto the pump. It is located at Five Points.

FIRE DESTROYS BAKERY TRUCK

ORANGE.—A fire, starting in a Riches' bakery truck stored in a garage in the rear of 125 South Citrus street, totally destroyed the truck and damaged the garage to the extent of $150 at 9:25 o'clock.

The garage is property of N. J. Whittier. The Orange fire department answered the alarm and saved surrounding buildings from destruction.

Golden Rain

by Margaret Widdemer

SYNOPSIS: Iris Lanning just has finished the high school, and her brother Owen, Iris' Aunt Ella had hidden the existence of Owen from her childhood. Iris is a strange girl for the modern world—a kind of living sacrifice to the memory of her dead father. And Morgan is a young man of some means who finds himself with the Lannings very amusing.

Chapter 11

MALE DRESSMAKER

Aunt Josephine had watchful black eyes and a face whose hard bright outlines displayed just enough make-up for the fashion. Her dress was perfection, black with a touch of red, and a string of old lady beads. The style of her clothes was so new Iris had never seen anything like them.

Everything about her was as perfect as the modeling of her hair and gown. She came to Iris, putting a firm possessive arm around her.

"My own dear little niece!" she said. Her voice was certain and controlled, like everything else about her. Her manner had a dominating enthusiasm. Morgan, watching her, and not liking her too much, admitted to himself that she did seem honestly glad to find Iris. "Sit down here, darling, and talk to me. Think of finding a sister like this, Owen—why she's lovely!"

"I always thought you hated us and didn't want to have anything to do with us," Owen said with a bluntness Iris liked. "I was awfully backed about finding you did."

"Didn't Morgan explain?" Iris said a little embarrassedly; she hated to seem to blame her aunt and uncle.

"Oh, yes," said Miss Ross, bitterly, tightening her arm around Iris. "She would. She always had the romantic methods of the old-fashioned melodrama, from the time she snatched you out of the baby carriage and walked back to Persia with you. You poor child, never to know you had a brother!"

"Well, I do now," said Iris quietly, smiling up at this kindly new Owen, who yet seemed so well known.

"And now you must let us make you forget all the worry you've been through," said Miss Ross caressingly. "Darling child, you're lovely. All you need to be a complete success is a little expert attention from your old auntie. Stand up, darling. Owen, look at her and tell me what you think."

Iris knew the small signs of annoyance Owen didn't know he showed. Uncle Wills' tiny knotting of the brows before he smiled in acquiescence and did as he was told, being a gentleman who must yield to his women-folk. He said, matter-of-factly enough, "She should keep to a certain amount of the period note."

Morgan, in the background like a sentinel, moved a little as if this dialogue told him something. Miss Ross saw it. She nodded and smiled.

"I thought you were of the great world," she said to him graciously. "You're right—I'm Phina Weatherly."

FLOOD QUOTA RAISED AT ORANGE

Exceed Amount By $145 In Red Cross Drive To Aid Victims

ORANGE.—Exceeding its quota by $145.38, the local chapter of the Red Cross is still receiving donations for the flood relief fund, it was announced yesterday by Harvey Riggie, chairman of the chapter.

Due to the great damage done in flood districts, it is felt that all funds possible are needed, and although the $450 quota was raised last week, more may be needed to complete the relief work, it was announced.

A sister of an Orange resident, Mrs. James McKrell, and family, were made homeless by the flood. Their home was in Tarentum, Pa. Miss Margaret McCaskey, employed in the local chamber of commerce, is a sister of the flood victims.

GROVE W. R. C. GROUP MEETS

GARDEN GROVE.—Meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Anabel Bryan, members of the W. R. C. tied four comforters and made two baby layettes to send to sufferers in the eastern flood areas. During the supper hour a pot-luck menu was served.

Guests of the group were Mrs. Myrtle Christensen and Mrs. Philis Schreff. Members present were Mesdames Mary Clark, Nellie Dunsdon, Hilda Marr, A. B. Bycatcher, Lillian West, Harriet Hilton, Ella Laughlin, Ruby Miller, Lucille Walker, Clara Olson, Loretta Ferris, Bertha Edgerly, Mignon Waters, Betty Baldwin and Evelyn Scofield.

"But you! Tell me about you!" She shook his arm affectionately, and he looked down at her with that grateful surprise at affection in his face which she knew so well in her uncle, but which from young, prosperous Owen seemed strange.

"You really care?"

"Of course. I think I'm very fond of you, Owen. It's been saved up, you know, all these years. D'you mind?"

"Mind?" He put his arm around her and kissed her, still shyly.

"There. Now we're relations. Now tell me what you do for a living and everything. Is there a girl?"

"Yes." He paused after that, then went on again. "I hate telling you what I do; darn it, I hate doing it. I've always wanted to be an architect. I am, theoretically—put myself through school at night."

"Why wasn't there money for daytime?"

"Leavings and lashings. Money But not time. I'm—" he flushed a shaded red, "I design for Phina. All day long. Darn well!"

"I should think you did! But why, if you don't want to?"

"Nobody'd want to be a male manta-maker, but it's simply a question of decency. Do you know what Phina did for me? Supported me, sewing, after Mother died, just one woman alone. Borrowed money, heavens knows how, and bought into an establishment in New York—drove to the top. I'd done it. I'd made my money through an expensive prep, she'd have put me through college, only I wouldn't take it."

"I found when I was around seventeen that I could help her out with designing." He flushed again at the idea. "Heaven knows why I can do it. I've got most of it. I hate it. Sigrid wants me out of it as much as I want to get out of it; but, as Phina says, it would be dishonorable—ungrateful—not playing the game."

"Oh, you sound more like Uncle Wills than I am, or possible." Then she pricked her ears at the possibility of a love-story. "Who is Sigrid?"

He turned to her, warm, excited. His slow voice quickened.

"She's the most beautiful person you ever saw. She's a sort of pocket Brunhild; when she came to us first, at 16, she had hair like a yellow cloak—and her eyes are the most beautiful things, like blue stars, like sky."

He showed himself, up and talked more coolly. "She's only my age, and she has a share in the firm. She began by modeling. Her parents were very plain people. Swedish immigrants. She's wonderful. Wait till you see her."

"Are you engaged?"

"I am. She won't. Phina isn't keen on it either, of course—women don't like to see their only nephews marry, I suppose. The worst of it is, Sigrid would if I'd take her money, and go over to France for a course in the Beaux Arts and then come back here and set up for myself."

Blower on Table
Food, Fellowship
Anaheim Park

Santa Ana's Floyd Blower is going to be more sensational than ever on the gridiron next year—if he plays.

Reason: The Berkeley star who left S. A. to become perhaps the brightest light in the Pacific Coast football firmament was on an operating table in the northern city today for repair of leg muscles injured in the Bear-Oregon game last fall.

At the Cowell Memorial hospital awaiting outcome of the operation, Coach Stut Allison today emphasized that the injury probably did not hold the Santa Ana flash back this year, but that the operation certainly should help to make him more effective from now on.

"First I had a club on my hands and now I've got a league. But I'm glad to have it."

You couldn't help but like the way Vic Ruedy said that, with a grin. It was his way of acknowledging his election last night to the presidency of the Orange County Nightball league.

We stacked away among our souvenirs, too, the look of anticipation and enthusiasm flashed by Walt Collins when that baseball man was elected secretary-treasurer.

There was no surprise attached to their election, of course, but the club managers must feel mighty comfortable today in knowing two such pilots are at the helm of their fine group today.

Nice fellowship in that gang. Trouble is such fellowship inspired ravenous eating on the part of your correspondent. Might have been because we sat next to Bill Cole's mountainous hulk—Bill eats, too—that we gobbled so much. Hope all the other scribes at the table who were foolish enough to try and keep up the eating pace set by the athletes, have the same over-stuffed feeling that we do today. One more feed like that and we'll have a Man Mountain Dean complex.

Swell way of doing, or rather doing away, with business in the county's "B" loop. Baseball is their main business and they have little time for nicker and beefing. Still, when Vic Walker and Bill Cole officially stepped out they left a nice nest egg in the exchequer.

"Was inspiring to see a gang of fellows concerned primarily with playing baseball just for the fun of playing baseball and not worrying much over gold, glory or gonfalone. The world of sport needs more guys with the attitude of the Orange County Nightball league managers."

Record breaking at the high school is breaking Coach Pinky Greene. The Saint mentor dominates a necktie or a pair of socks to any of his trackmen—Class A, B or C—who crack a school mark.

In the past week he has had to buy three neckties.

Columbist was in the other corner suggests it would be more fitting to limit the awards to a pair of socks for any athlete who breaks a mark "by two feet."

Anaheim is going to be the envy of the county before long. Vic Ruedy told in detail about plans for what will in time become as famous as that mecca of green teauty in the city now, Anaheim park.

We looked at plans for the $165,000 project today. Baseball diamond, football field, basketball, volleyball and badminton courts. Also a casting and wading pool and tennis courts. Also a place to play roulette, whatever it is that one plays roulette on.

Not a city in the Southland has anything to match it.

Saint Netters Ready for Test With San Diego Down South Friday

Selection of the four tennis players who will represent the Saints at the annual Dudley Cup competition in Santa Monica, and an announcement that Santa Ana High school probably will play host to the Coast Preparatory league in its annual tournament in May, turned the spotlight on the net sport here today.

Tennis Commissioner Clyde Patton, who also coaches the Saints, said he planned to invite Long Beach Poly, San Diego and Alhambra here either May 9 or 16 for the Coast league tourney leading up to the Southern California Interscholastic finals in Fullerton June 6.

Bill Hill and Bob Mize will compete in the upper division (for boys 15 years of age or older) and Marvin Jacobs and Bob Blake, more will represent the school in the under-15 classification, Mr. Patton said. Success at the Santa Monica event April 9-10-11 will assure some of the Saints a trip to the Dudley Cup.

The Dudley Cup tournament is one of the outstanding prep events of the Southland. T. H. Dudley donated the trophy in 1915 with the understanding it would be won annually by some high school athlete. A small replica of the permanent cup will be awarded to the winner. Bobby Riggs of Los Angeles is the 1936 favorite in the upper division.

The Saints go to San Diego Friday for their third league match. They clean-swept Long Beach Poly, but were upset by Alhambra, 7-2, last week. San Diego is exceptionally strong.

BUCK' KIMBALL HEADS FIGHTS

The sensational navy heavyweight, "Buck" Kimball, who polished off both Art Johnson and Henry Lowe in recent amateur battles at the Orange County Athletic club and whose match with Lupe LeMon looms at the biggest fistic attraction in this section at the present, today was signed to head Friday night's parade of 20 amateur battlers at the O. C. A. C.

Kimball wants to meet LeMon this week, but owing to a bad ear, LeMon will be out of the picture for at least two weeks, his manager, Bob Singleton informed promoter Sam Sampson.

Sampson is scouting around today looking for a heavyweight to meet Kimball and has offered the shot to several outstanding leather pushers.

Friday night's card already has such lads as Frency Jr., Freddie Hunt, Jimmy Woodrow, Raoul Solis, Joe Orona, Badge Diaz, Maxie Moore, Ken Holiday, Tino Munoz, Larry Thomas, Buck Durbin and Paul Saucedo signed and ready for action. Thomas and Saucedo clash in a rematch while Durbin tackles Munoz and Solis draws Jure.

Ned Reigh, 'Another Exterminator,' Is Kilmer Hope in Kentucky Derby

By FRANK H. FULLER

REMLIK, HALL, Va., March 31. (AP)—Thundering hoofs beat a fast tattoo on a heavy track as Ned Reigh, Kentucky Derby contender, flashed past two fillies after a breeze around the track at this Kilmer training ground.

"Well?" inquired Jack White, veteran trainer, as he leaned back on his cane, a smile beginning to play around the corners of his mouth.

"You are going up to talk to Mr. Kilmer," he said. "I think I had better leave the comment to him. I'll tell you that the horse hasn't missed a day this winter and he is far advanced."

White looked on approvingly as Ned Reigh, dark brown son of Neddie out of Reigh Nun, came off the track and headed for the big indoor track, where he is exercised in cold weather, to be led around until cooled off.

Later, in the residence, William Sharpe Kilmer, noted turfman and breeder of great thoroughbreds, leaned back in an easy chair in a room adorned with the pictures of such noted horses as "Sun Briar," "Sun Beau" and his recent importation, "Gino," and said:

"Ned Reigh is more like an exterminator than any horse I've ever owned. He is big, good on a fast track or in the mud, and he can go the distance. I think he is a good horse. Like Exterminator, he doesn't need a rider, but he can take advantage of any opening."

If Ned Reigh could comment he probably would add to the spirit of confidence here. He runs with a smooth, seemingly effortless action that carries him over the ground with an amazing speed. Experienced observers in this horse-breeding state agree he will be hard to beat in the Derby. In fact, some say he will be THE horse to beat.

Entered in Preakness

E. E. Coussell, writing in the Bloodstock Breeders Review, London, says Ned Reigh "is probably the best horse Mr. Kilmer has bred and owned since Sun Beau."

As a 2-year-old last season Ned Reigh won the Troy Claiming stakes at Saratoga, the Babylon handicap, the Junior Championship stakes and the Walden stakes, the last named at Bowie over a mile and a sixteenth.

White feels that he will be ready shortly to battle the best in the racing game. Before the Derby, Ned Reigh will run in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica and after the Derby he will go on to Baltimore for the Preakness.

NEWPORT ACE LIKES YANK BOAT TEAM

By LYING SCOTSMAN, Jr.

Boy, that storm during the early part of last week certainly wrecked fishing for awhile. Things are sure rotten. It's a darn good thing that storm came along however, because it cleans up the works and now we can settle down and have some good fishing in a couple of weeks. That storm and accompanying rain was just what the doctor ordered.

Now that we've gone to the trouble of digging out our bay all nice and clean, and having the chamber of commerce erect a sign of welcome at the end of the jetty, the fish refuse to come in and bite. Guess they just don't appreciate it or something. About the doctor order.

Two other members have been selected for the American yachting team, Owen Churchill, South Coast Corinthian Yacht club of Santa Monica, Calif., and Frank B. Jewett, Vineyard Haven Yacht club, Massachusetts.

Bartholomae predicted 14 countries would enter the six-meter competition, and possibly 12 in the eight-meter, in which Churchill will sail his Angella after racing in Scandinavian regattas. Churchill won the 1932 Olympic title.

Four Los Angeles yachtsmen will man Bartholomae's Newport Harbor Yacht club skip. They are Morgan Adams, John Wallace, secretary of the Trans-Pacific Yacht club; Carl Paul, and Joe Livengood.

STAR-ELK GAME IS POSTPONED

Apparently it never was meant for the Santa Ana Stars to play the Santa Ana Elks.

Slated to send their nightball nines into action at the Municipal bowl tonight, Managers George Lackaye of the National league club and Kenneth Miller of the City league champions were forced to postpone the clash because of wet grounds.

The first game between the rivals was called off by rain last week.

Weather permitting, Manager Lackaye said he would schedule a workout with the Elks tomorrow night. They go up against Irvine here Friday.

Ben Gekker's Olive Grenadiers and Liston (Memph) Hills' Orange nines are billed for an inter-club workout at Orange tonight, but the scrimmage may be called off, too. The Orange park grounds are reported to be wetter than the Municipal bowl field.

erel and halibut, and not very many of them. As soon as the water clears up it should be better.

Starting April 1, and we're not fooling, there'll be a boat of the live bait variety leaving at 5 a. m. from the end of the Newport pier. Second one at 7 and another at 8. Catching bass, halibut, skulpin and a few baby barracuda, but not many. No, no yellowtail. The guys that operate the live bait boats can go set on a tack-sky, if they don't like what I write about their bloomin' boats.

Cliff von Doghouse suggests fishing for halibut in the bay, using a number 14 hook to catch your bait first, then use it for halibut. There's some big ones in there, if you're properly equipped you can have some real sport fishing for 'em. Many fishermen have hooked them down by the entrance of the bay, but because they didn't have a gaff they couldn't land them, and so they make a good fish story.

Fishermen have been having better luck off the jetty at the entrance of the bay than they have from the piers. Catching bass, perch, skulpin, and once in a while a halibut. Try it sometime. Clams and salt bait are the best. Fresh mackerel works good also.

Barge fishing consists of the same old tom cod, sand dab, mack-

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, March 31. (AP)—You just ought to hear "Old Bill" Keeler of the Atlanta Journal, daddy of the golf writers, rave about this Minneapolis miss, Patty Berg. . . . He likes her better than any golfer he's seen except Bobby Jones. . . . Thinks she's going to be one of the greats.

This bureau stopped off in Atlanta on the way home from the grapefruit belt to see Old Bill and all he'd do was talk about Miss Berg. . . . So the broadcast is turned over to him. . . . He's doing the talking:

"She showed me she has what it takes. . . . She's a stylist and is going to become a great competitive golfer. You know this East Lake course. . . . It's tough enough for men, let alone women. . . . Well, Patty Berg is the second woman golfer in history to break 80 on her first time around. Betty did it in 77. . . . The first was Joyce Wethered, called by Bobby Jones the 'greatest of them all'."

"Patty started out at East Lake with a six. . . . She took three putts on the first green. . . . But there were no more sixes that day. . . . On the 555-yard fifth hole, longest of the layout, she was out of bounds with her second shot. . . . Still, she managed to get a men's par five. . . . On the next longest hole, the 565-yard fifteenth, uphill all the way, she missed her third shot but sank a 10-foot putt for a men's par five. . . . She came to the seventeenth with a five and a four left for an 80. . . . Did she make it? . . . I'll say she did—with two of the prettiest three you ever saw. . . . I tell you, she's got the competitive spirit. . . . That's what counts. . . . She's a good bet to back to the limit."

BYRAM BATES SETS CLASS RECORD

Sophomore Jumps 5:4 to Shatter Boyd's Mark Established in '30

Sophomore Byram Bates, an athletic star in the making, was sporting another all-time Class C track record at Santa Ana High school today.

Little Bates leaped 5 ft. 4 in. to throw into discard Don Boyd's 1930 standard of 5 ft. 2 in. in the high jump, while Coach Reece (Pinky) Greene's midgits defeated Fullerton, 47 to 30, in a practice dual meet at Fullerton yesterday.

It was an entirely different story in Class A and B competition. Fullerton's none too potent varsity won from Santa Ana's weaker forces, 55½ to 44½, and Donald Cruickshank's Class B Indians shaded the Saint middleweights, 48 to 47.

Harry Adams was first in a 23.6 secs. furlong, and Len Stafford broke the tape in a 27.9 flight of low hurdles for Santa Ana's only varsity track victory, although Blas Mercurio and Jim Johnson tied for first in the high jump, and Stafford, Mitsuo Nitta and Erwin Yuel tied at 11 ft. in the vault.

Slow times were due to Fullerton's soft wind. Santa Ana's Garden Grove of Fullerton edged out Santa Ana's Herschel Whitney by a foot in a thrilling finish to a slow 1320 in Class B. They began their sprint 220 yards from the finish, and remained within a yard of each other clear to the tape.

The Saints compete at Long Beach Poly in a dual meet Friday.

County Night Nines Headed By Vic Ruedy

By PAUL WRIGHT

An ardent follower of the diamond sport, Anaheim's Vic Ruedy, was president today of an Orange County Night Ball league with four active franchises: Brea's 1935 champions, Irvine, San Juan Capistrano and Placentia.

Mr. Ruedy, retiring skipper of the Anaheim Valencias of the National wheel, and manager of the Anaheim municipal park, succeeded Ralph (Bill) Cole of Santa Ana as head of the Class B chain, and Walter Collins was named secretary-treasurer to replace Vic Walker, at a dinner meeting of officials and sports writers in the Green Cat cafe here last night. Mr. Collins and Mr. Walker are Santa Anans.

OLIVE MISSING

Representatives were not present from Huntington Beach, Olive, Garden Grove and Fullerton of the 1935 membership, and some doubt was expressed whether all of the quartet would renew franchises.

Olive, runner-up to Brea for the '35 crown, definitely will not be in the pennant dash, Ben Gekker, who also manages Olive's Class A club, said today.

Huntington Beach is reported to have begun drill, but no word was received from Paul Bowen of the Baby Oilers last night.

Garden Grove and Fullerton likewise are remaining quiet.

President Ruedy said he thought Anaheim and Norwalk could be interested. Managers expressed the opinion that Anaheim, with most of its National league players out-of-town talent, would jump at the opportunity to give local lads a chance to play in the County loop. Some balked at the suggestion that Norwalk be admitted to what now is strictly an Orange county organization.

ELKS ARE OUT

Kenneth Miller, manager of the City league champions, today blasted reports he would bolt the Santa Ana loop to hook up with the Orange County league.

"I plan to remain in the City league," Mr. Miller said.

Open May 18

Monday, May 18 was set as opening night. Another meeting will be held April 20, at a place to be set by Prexy Ruedy, to draw up the '36 schedule.

President Cole, in relinquishing the reins to Mr. Ruedy, urged managers to observe the league rules more carefully to avoid misunderstandings which arose last year when some clubs failed to file players contracts, then insisted on using baseball cleats, and those who turned in protests did not accompany them with the $1 fee.

The league has a $7.50 forfeit fee which is deposited at the start of the season, and which remains in the conference coffers provided a team withdraws during the regular season. Only three teams filed this fee with Treasurer Walker last year.

Adopt New Rules

Unanimous approval was made of the new playing rules of a 13-inch ball, 37½-foot pitching distance and 50-foot baselines, as already adopted by the National and American leagues of the Southern California Night Ball association, and the Santa Ana City league.

Treasurer Walker turned over to his successor, Mr. Collins, a

EXPERTS ARE PREDICTING BEST SPRING BUSINESS IN SIX YEARS

RECOVERY IN U. S. FORGES AHEAD

Commerce Continues to Expand Despite the Severe Winter

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)
NEW YORK, March 31.—America's economic recovery has forged ahead in the quarter of 1936 ending today, leading business analysts generally to anticipate the best spring in six years. Despite an exceptionally severe winter with storms blocking the arteries of trade, regardless of spring floods tying up railroads and wrecking industrial equipment in a number of eastern manufacturing cities, in face of fresh political and economic tension abroad, and uncertainties incident to vital legal and legislative decisions in Washington, commerce has continued to expand. Steel production, reflecting in part the accumulation of demand during the flood interruption, has just risen well over 60 per cent of capacity for the first time since the summer of 1930. Merchants of many cities report that Easter shopping has already swelled to the largest volume in several years.

Relief Remains Problem
Unemployment and relief roles still loom ominously large. Yet the stirrings of activity in heavy industry, still responsible for much of the nation's idleness, have become pronounced in recent months. Service and miscellaneous lines of employment, which account for most of the remaining lag pending restoration of a broader prosperity.

Automobile production, according to present estimates, ran well over 1,000,000 units in the first three months of this year. The fact that it has fallen about 3 per cent under the first quarter of 1935 is attributable entirely to the fact that production of new models was started in October rather than December. The first quarter total is almost triple the low level of the same period of 1933, and is only about 30 per cent under the first quarter of 1929.

The effect of new manufactures was notable during the first quarter of the year in use of electrical power, which set a new high record, some 10 per cent over 1935, and all of 13 per cent over 1929.

Building Picks Up
Building, one of the laggard heavy lines upon which recovery hopes lean heavily, made pronounced strides. Total residential contracts during the first quarter, latest statistics indicate, were well above 60 per cent more than in the same months of 1935, and almost 200 per cent over 1933. Yet they were still less than a quarter of the total for that period in 1929.

The movement of freight—one of the favorite measures of the total volume of trade—appears to have gained about 5 per cent over the first three months of 1935, some 25 per cent over 1933, but held some 35 per cent under 1929. This showing would no doubt have been better but for the deterring affects of storms and floods.

Capital has continued to pile up in the investment markets, forcing gilt-edged bonds up to new high prices since the turn of the century, despite recurrent worries over possible inflation resulting from continued government expenditure, chiefly for relief of unemployment.

Stocks Advance
During the first two months of the year, the stock market advanced almost steadily, reaching new highs since the summer of 1931, as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 representative issues.

The investment market remained active with refunding of outstanding issues with new bonds bearing lower rates of interest. The raising of new capital expanded considerably compared with the almost complete stagnation of recent years, but reached only a small fraction of what it was in the boom times of 1928-29.

Unemployment, according to the latest estimate of the National Industrial Conference board, still hovered around the 10,000,000 mark. This compared with an average of 10,136,000 during the

++ County Landmarks ++ Modjeska Canyon, Named for Famous Polish Actress Who Lived There

(In an effort to acquaint residents of Orange county with some of their most-prized historic possessions, The Journal is publishing a series of daily articles on county landmarks. These articles will describe their location and give historical facts concerning them. Today's article tells about Modjeska canyon.—Editor.)

The name of Madame Helen Modjeska still stirs many a pleasant memory in the minds of Orange county's citizens who remember when the famous actress lived in her sylvan home in the Santiago canyon, at a spot which since has become known as Modjeska canyon. The home still remains there, half hidden among trees, and is one of Orange county's most cherished landmarks. Madame Modjeska and her husband, Count Bozenta, came to Anaheim from Poland in 1876. In Europe Madame Modjeska was a well known actress. One of their party was Henry Sienkiewicz, novelist, who later returned to Europe and wrote his famous novel, Quo Vadis. At Anaheim Modjeska became a homemaker while her husband and others in the group tried farming. The venture by

Fullerton Man, Handicapped By Illness, Paints Pictures That Win Praise At Exhibits

By ELLEN SNEBLEY
Back and forth splashed the paint brush held by a buckeye artist in a paint store window. As a picture formed on the canvas one of the man's watchers, Albert Symmonds of Fullerton, decided: "I can do better work than that." So, undaunted by his lack of training, his ill health, and the nervous disorder which necessitates his steadying one hand with the other as he paints, Mr. Symmonds brought a set of watercolors and started painting pictures.

Painting Exhibited
Today, nine years later, his paintings have been hung in prominent Southern art galleries, included in traveling picture exhibits, praised by leading critics, and have brought rich happiness to the Fullertonian.

Paintbox in hand, he'll start off when his work is done, to walk to some lonely spot where there's a deserted shack or an old tree and fence, and work patiently and laboriously to reproduce the beauty he sees in the scene.

Sometimes it will be a garage that catches his eye, or a fire engine, a Negro standing outside a store or his own dog lying before the fire. Whatever attracts his interest means a picture for the artist. His work has a fresh, clear quality which has led to its being compared with pictures by Millard Sheets.

Last summer, Mr. Symmonds stayed in Laguna Beach and completed a series of marine paintings which have received considerable praise. Then his health became worse. For months he could not paint. Lately, however, he is returning to his art.

Likes Industrial Art
Because he has never been able to pursue a regular vocation and has had to do whatever work he could get, his painting has meant release from the everyday world for the Fullerton man. He enjoys most the pictures of industrial life, done in the modern manner, because he likes life and action.

"But," he smiles, "people like pretty pictures, so I paint them and hope to be able to sell them." "I've been trading pictures for permanent waves through these first three months of 1935, and of 12,946,000 in the first three months of 1933, according to the board's tabulation.

How soon heavy industry may revive, new manufactures develop, and miscellaneous services expand to make a substantial dent in these totals remain one of the big questions marks facing business and finance.

CONGRESS IS FACING LONG SESSION

Only 3 Major Pieces of Legislation Finished In Three Months

WASHINGTON, March 31. (AP) Congress completed its third month today with only three major pieces of legislation on the statute books and members beginning to talk of the session's ending in the national convention period in June.

Congress faces a program which includes a tax bill to raise money for farm aid and bonus costs, a $1,500,000,000 relief appropriation for next year and many regular appropriation bills. Demands for the consideration of a dozen other problems are heard.

Its Three Measures
In the past three months, congress has extended the neutrality law, passed the cash bonus bill over the President's veto, set up a new farm-aid program, and approved two of the 11 regular appropriation bills.

The only major bill sent to the White House in March was the independent offices supply measure carrying funds for the farm program, the bonus and independent government bureaus.

Administration leaders still hope to wind up the session by June 1. Their original goal was May 1. But many members predict the session will not close before June 15. Four years ago congress ran through both national conventions.

Only the tax and relief bills, and the appropriation measures, are considered in the "must" class by leaders.

Fur Stolen By Girl Recovered

Santa Ana police yesterday recovered a fur neckpiece belonging to Mrs. Pauline Calkins, 1909 South Van Ness street, Santa Ana, that had been stolen while she attended a motion picture in a Santa Ana theater on March 9. Yesterday Mrs. Calkins told Detective Lieutenant Charles Wolford she had seen a girl wearing the fur last Saturday afternoon. She recognized the man who had been with the girl at the time, and it was through him that police learned the identity of a 15-year-old girl who, after questioning, admitted the theft.

Mrs. Calkins said that soon after entering the theater a girl took the seat next to her. The girl, whose name is being withheld by police, left before the show began. Yesterday when she was questioned, she at first told officers a relative had given her the fur for a present nearly four years ago. The child's mother told the same story, but later told officers she had lied in order to protect her daughter.

The fur was returned to Mrs. Calkins. No complaint has been filed as yet.

U. S. DEPUTY WILL SPEAK AT FINAL LENTEN LUNCHEON
Frank Besser, United States deputy marshal, will speak tomorrow afternoon at the Episcopal Church of the Messiah, to an audience assembled after luncheon served by women of the church.

The affair concludes a series of weekly luncheons sponsored during Lent by the women's auxiliary. Each has followed a mid-week morning service at the church. Mrs. Charles D. Swanner and Mrs. William Wollaston are in charge of tomorrow's luncheon.

'HOST MOTHER' LATEST THING
Transfer System Limits Sex
WASHINGTON, March 31. (AP) The possibility of human children being brought into the world by a "host mother" not related to them by flesh or blood was discussed today by the nation's biologists on learning that at last a mammalian egg had been fertilized artificially.

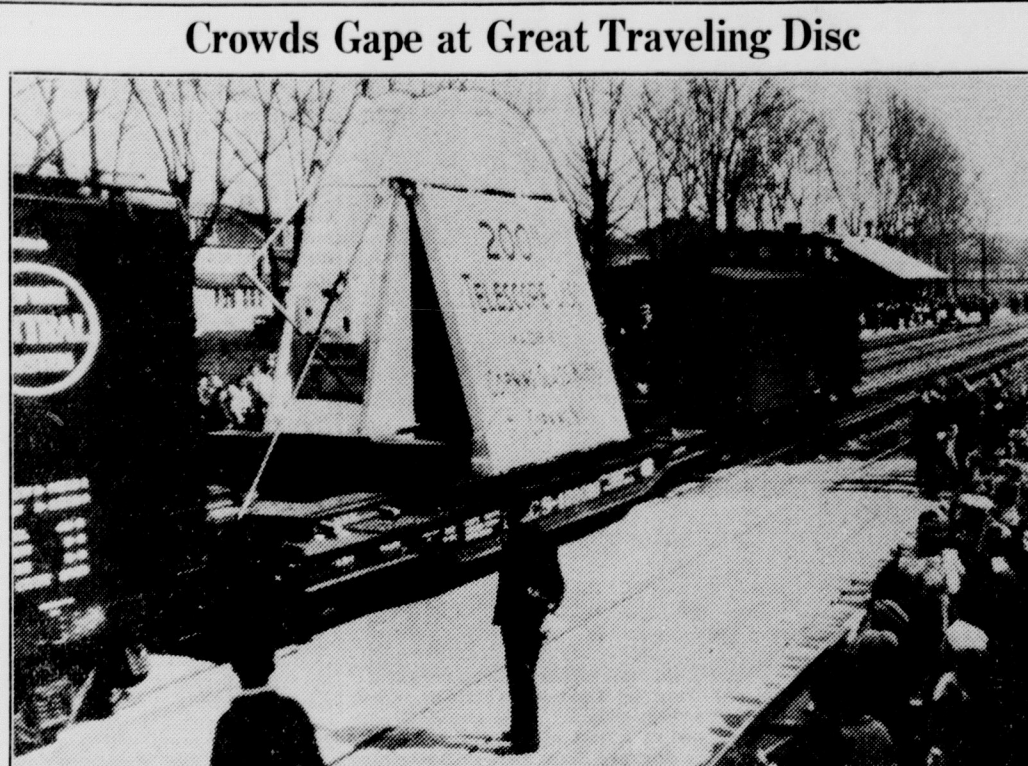

The report of this experiment came from Professor Gregory Pincus of Harvard who announced that for the first time he successfully had transplanted the life cell of one female rabbit, which had been fertilized by heat and chemicals in a test tube, without the use of the male sperm.

As rabbits and human beings belong to the mammalian group, the experiment indicated the possibility that in some future day women incapable of having children because of ill health may "hire" other women to bear their children for them—children of their own flesh and blood.

Dr. Pincus added that only female children could result from such a transfer.

MWD ENGINEERS FIGHT FRICTION

Aiming for the greatest possible smoothness on the inner surface of the siphons, conduits and tunnels of the Metropolitan Water District aqueduct from the Colorado river, engineering and construction crews today were waging a relentless war against friction. Equipped with every device known to engineering science, and developing new ones as they go along, the aqueduct crews make it their business to ferret out irregularities and rough spots in the concrete surfaces.

The great care devoted to the task is explained by water district engineers, rises from the fact that the smoother the concrete surface, the less frictional resistance it presents to the flow of water—and hence, the greater the amount of water which can be passed through an aqueduct structure of a given diameter.

The general evenness of the surface is achieved by the use of smooth steel forms which hold the concrete in place until it is set. Despite this practice, however, small imperfections sometimes appear where the forms are joined together. Common friction tape, in wide strips, is now used in overcoming this difficulty. It is lapped over the ends of the forms, preventing the concrete from running down the cracks.

Electric emery wheels are used to grind off high places in the surface, and pneumatic concrete guns are used to fill in the low spots that appear.

Has Jimmy Utt Taken His Hat from Senatorial Ring With McFadden in Race?

By TED STEPHENSON
Well, make up your minds, fellows. Get settled—light someone where. First we hear definite rumors to the effect that Jimmy Utt has thrown his fedora into the state senatorial ring. Now, the rumor is fairly well founded that Jimmy has had a change of heart and will announce this week his candidacy for reelection to the assembly.

I have several used and slightly chipped marbles that I am willing to risk on a little wager. Namely, that Tom McFadden will announce his candidacy for state senate either tomorrow or Thursday.

Well, make up your minds, fellows. Get settled—light someone where. First we hear definite rumors to the effect that Jimmy Utt has thrown his fedora into the state senatorial ring. Now, the rumor is fairly well founded that Jimmy has had a change of heart and will announce this week his candidacy for reelection to the assembly.

More than likely I will be double-crossed on both counts. These politicians are just like women when it comes to making up their minds.

Here is something else again. Just another one of those things that makes political prognostications precarious. This note was on my typewriter today: "This is dependable—Tom Talbert, Huntington Beach, will not run for state senate or anything else. He has too much to do at home." My informant no doubt did not mean "home" as used in the song.

Political Gymnastics
This same kind hearted person left a clipping on my desk taken from the Huntington Beach News, dated, March 26. One paragraph in particular is of interest and might tend to shed light on the political gymnastics revolving about the assembly and senatorial races.

"It is plain, however, that the old Republicans are not pleased with legislative prospects," the article read. "To a man they're for Nels T. Edwards, but have about given up hope of getting him to return to the senate. With Nels out, the first hat in the ring is Jimmy Utt's, and that doesn't suit the old heads. They do not feel that Utt is senatorial caliber. They have no particular complaint about his record, but point out he went along all right because he was properly steered by Edwards and Ted Craig. With both these wheel horses missing, they doubt Jimmy's ability to follow through. They would rather see Tom McFadden, Tom Talbert."

Whether or not Jimmy's decision to switch back into the assembly race was the result of pressure from the old heads mentioned in the Huntington Beach article, Jimmy alone knows. The chances are, however, that he does not care to tangle issues by competing in a race with a man whom he himself believes is fully qualified to hold down the office.

Another thing to remember is this: Jimmy ranks among the first 10 in the assembly in point of years of service. In another four years he will be in a position to run for speaker of the house, and he stands a good chance of gathering the job. You can bet he had this fact in mind when he decided to stay out of the senatorial race.

P. S. Just in case you haven't heard, Ridley Smith, Democrat, is being groomed to run on the Bourbon ticket for assembly.

April to Bring Showers, Real and Social, Weddings, Dances for Santa Ana

Tomorrow To Start Ball Rolling

Easter Motif Is Popular Decorative Note for Next Few Weeks

April showers bring May flowers—and April parties and weddings and dances and a joyous Easter season to one and all.

Among the numerous social affairs slated for the month to begin tomorrow is the wedding of pretty blonde Carol House and Arthur Casey Sunday in the Santa Ana Wedding chapel.

Monday evening Southern California Fifty-Fifty clubmen will have a stag with Clyde Hill as host, meantime their feminine cohorts will rally with Mrs. Riley Huber for bridge.

Saturday, April 11, is the wedding date chosen by Miss Katherine Barr and Wilbur Atherton of Los Angeles, whose recent engagement announcement has prompted a series of parties for Kay by her Scripps college classmates.

Easter Sunday, Miss Caroline Smith will marry Sam W. Cash, and Miss Lillian Hansen will be wedded to Melvin Witt.

Tuesday evening, April 14, will bring a real social and theatrical treat in the annual presentation of one-act playwriting contest winners in Ebell clubhouse.

Fifty-Fifties will have a formal dancing party Saturday evening, April 25, at the popular Lakewood Country club, Long Beach.

And to round out the month, the annual Southern California tournament of one-act plays will begin Thursday, April 30, and continue through Saturday evening, May 2, which will be Tux'n Gown's last formal of the year, at the Santa Ana Country club.

DEANE SHIELDS IS HONOR GUEST AT BIRTHDAY PARTY

Deane Shields, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shields, had a belated 13th birthday anniversary party last Friday evening in the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Jemison, 711 West Fifth street.

Easter decorations were in use. Guests included Peggy and Lucille Roberts, Betty and Russell Fisher, Sharon Russell, Eleanor Beisser, Barnett Swearingin, Billy Jolly, Mary Catherine Harper, Neal Harper, Bobby Crawford, Gene Morrison and Glen Crawford.

TWO GIRLS ARE PARTY HOSTESSES

Misses Norma Doss and Novella McWilliams entertained with a spring dance recently in the Doss home at Tustin for a group of fellow dance students of Estlin Burke.

Miss Helen Whitney played for dancing. Mrs. Nolan Doss and Mrs. Eva McWilliams, mothers of the hostesses, served a dessert. Others present were Eugenia Bond, Dorene Wussow, Fayetta Wilson, Helen Rupert, Dorothy Valentine, Homer Chaney, Jr., Harry Brough, Gail Middleton, Jimmie Valentine, Martin Weinberg, Wayne Carothers and Melvin Doss.

DINNER MEETING AT Y. W. C. A. TONITE

First regular meeting of Wrycende Maegden in several weeks will be held at 6:15 o'clock this evening, in the Y. W. C. A. rooms, with Miss Rowena Newcomb president, in charge.

Report of the "world peace" dinner in Long Beach last week will be given by Wrycende Maegden members who made the trip.

Hostess Duo Entertains at Two Bridge Luncheons

Mrs. Sherman Stevens and Mrs. Horace Stevens shared hostess honors at two very lovely luncheons and contract bridge parties which they gave in the Sherman Stevens home at Tustin yesterday and Saturday.

The small luncheon tables were covered with deep blue organdie centered with mirrors, on each of which was placed a single camellia blossom and a candle. Potted azaleas in pastel colors were arranged attractively throughout the home.

Table prizes were given in contract. Mrs. Fred Forgy and Miss Kate Travis assisted in the hostessing Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Sam W. Nau assisted yesterday.

Guests included: Mrs. Mesdames John Ball, Dexter Ball, Wilbur Barr, Lawrence Bemis, L. A. Chenoweth, L. D. Coffing, Frederick Elliott, E. A. Emison, Lyman Farwell, W. A. Flood, Fred Forgy, J. A. George, Clarence Gustlin, Edward Hall, D. K. Hammond, Harry L. Hanson, J. P. Hatfield, W. Bradford Hellis, J. K. Herzog.

SAN DIEGO COUPLE MARRIED IN PRETTY RITES AT CHAPEL

A profusion of spring blossoms made the Santa Ana Wedding Chapel even more attractive than usual when it saw the wedding of Miss Pauline Connable and Dan S. Kuykendall of San Diego Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Rev. Earl C. Bloss, resident minister, officiated in the presence of more than 60 guests.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore her mother's delicate ivory lace gown and carried a French bouquet centered with an orchid.

Miss Dorothy Lee Townsend of San Diego, maid of honor, was in white net over pastel slip, and carried a pastel French bouquet. Ernest W. Dorr of San Diego was best man. Florence Pollock Feldner and Mrs. Raymond Warren were soloist and organist.

A reception at the Doris Kathryn tearoom followed the wedding. The couple will live in San Diego, where Mr. Kuykendall is an immigration officer.

SPELLING BEE IS DIVERSION OF MARY-MARTHAS

An old-fashioned "spell-down," games and sewing entertained members of the Mary-Martha Bible class of Calvary church, at a party held recently in Berean hall. Approximately 50 class members were present.

Green and white colored the refreshments. Individual cakes with green frosting and green and white ice cream were served. The committee in charge included Sue Secret, Roxie Lee Vaughn, Evelyn Wilson, Phoebe Simpson and Grace Brewer.

MISS HAUGHTON PRESENTS PUPILS

Carolyn Haughton presented a group of her junior and senior piano pupils in the second of a series of recitals in her studio on West first street.

Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Chopin and Liszt were composers whose works were represented on the program.

Pupils taking part were Marie Drefsen, Donna June Cocking, Betty Ellen Mitchell, Frances Courillon, Virginia Adams, Betty Woodruff, Lois Newbold, Arthur Sanborn, Barbara Merget, Genevieve Straw, Irene Imman, Marjorie Metzgar, Didi Schmiedberg, Carolyn Wells and Virginia Campbell.

Orpheo Troupe Easter Styles Tour To Begin At Laguna

Spring tour plans for the Orpheo troupe, Santa Ana Junior college entertainment unit, were completed today with the announcement that Laguna Beach union high school would be visited by the student organization April 14.

Making arrangements with the troupe for engagements at their respective high school assemblies are five other schools in the county: Huntington Beach, Tustin, Orange, Newport Harbor, and possibly San Juan Capistrano union high schools are being considered for visits during the first three weeks after spring vacation.

Active a month before the annual Fiesta day at the junior college, the troupe annually tours county high schools, presenting programs in student body assemblies.

Walter Bandick, director of the Orpheo Troupe last spring, again assumes direction of entertainment for the different shows. Besides being in charge of contacting the high schools, Forensic Commissioner Nelson Kogler also made the final arrangements for the appearances at those schools.

The junior college Men's chorus of 28 voices will appear with the troupe, giving selections directed by Miss Myrtle Martin, music department head.

Ernest Crozier Phillips, college drama instructor, will present a one-act play for these performances. He will be assisted by Arthur Coleman, student director. Santa Ana junior college activities will be outlined by a student leader for the high school pupils' benefit.

MARY LOU BRAFFORD HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY IN EASTER MOTIF

Her seventh birthday anniversary and the approaching Easter holiday combined to make a truly exciting and joyous party occasion for Mary Lou Brafford Saturday afternoon at her home at 507 South Flower street.

Eight little girls were present. Games were played. Among them, an Easter egg hunt afforded much merriment. The two finding the most eggs won prizes.

At 4 o'clock the children were seated around a table centered with a decorated birthday cake gaily topped by seven tiny tapers. Ice cream, individual chocolate cakes, wafers and large slices of birthday cake were served by Mrs. Howard Swantz, hostess, assisted by Mrs. A. B. Krause.

Guests were Lois and Betty Brooks, Levia Mary Krause, Betty Ruth May, Donna Mae McCord, Patsy and Jo-Anne Adams and Eleanor Lindahl.

F. P. NICKEY HOME IS SETTING FOR REUNION AFFAIR

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Nickey and Mr. and Mrs. John Tesmann brought together a group of former Northfield, Minn., friends for a pleasant reunion party Saturday evening in the Nickey home at 519 Bush street.

Reminiscing occupied much of the time of the guests, who are either in California for the winter or permanently. Bridge was played. Spring flowers decked the home, and an appetizing dessert course was served after the bridge play.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Alexander, Judge and Mrs. A. B. Childress, Mrs. Noel, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lasby, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Scelfi, Mr. and Mrs. Tolman, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Haber and Mrs. Nickey's houseguest, Mrs. Olive Dooley of Omaha, Neb.

SPEAKERS DEPICT ENGLISH LIFE FOR S. A. EBELLES

Verbal pictures of English homes, schools, hospitals and historic spots were created by Mrs. Charles W. Druitt, guest speaker Friday afternoon at the Ebell club third travel section meeting in the clubhouse lounge. Mrs. F. P. Nickey presided with Mrs. C. P. Boyer, program chairman.

Mrs. A. Westgate spoke on "Commercial England." Guests for the afternoon were the Mesdames E. E. Keck, Jewett, M. N. Wyatt, Myles and Duling, Iowa, and Miss Freeman.

Mrs. Sam Nau was announced as hostess for the April meeting, to be held at her new home in Tustin.

SAN FRANCISCANS HONORED WITH BUFFET SUPPER

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Meakin of San Francisco, week-end houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Forgy were honored by the Forgy's at a buffet supper party Saturday evening in their home on Oakmont street.

The affair also served to compliment Miss Katherine Barr and her fiancé, Wilbur Atherton of Los Angeles.

CATHOLIC WOMEN

Mrs. John W. Reynolds will be hostess at 2 p. m. Friday at her home, 417 El Camino del Mar, Laguna Beach, to members of the Orange county council of Catholic women. Directions for reaching the Reynolds residence may be secured from Mrs. Ashley Turner, telephone 4892.

Easter Styles 'Say It With Flowers'

By ADELAIDE KERR
NEW YORK (AP)—American Easter fashions "say it with flowers."

Sunday morning parades from Maine to California will be marked by the most varied floral accents the fashion world has used in years.

Bright blossoms from field, garden and hothouse bloom on hats, necklines, lapels or waistlines in costumes designed for Easter wear, and numerous printed frocks are splashed all over with flowers.

Daisies perch under the brim of a sailor and buttercups rim the crown of an inverted "May basket" hat. Bold bright anemones are poised at the throatline of frocks, cornflowers are worn as boutonnières and tulips thrust into belts.

Many of the frocks for Easter wear are sheer black georgettes or crepes splashed with coral and white daisies, jade and white leaves or rose, mauve and green anemones. Besides these there are a number of dark coat dresses with printed floral crepe vestes and skirt insets or wind-around printed scarfs.

Black and navy blue crepes make the most of the other dresses, many of which are topped by jackets. Navy blue frocks with brief boleros and frilly white jabots or pique vests are big favorites worn with dark straw hats trimmed with white pique bows and white pique gloves.

Two-piece frocks combining a skirt and tunic house of plain or geometric printed crepe are other favorites.

The coats which will top many of the dresses bear the stamp of 1936. Most of them are the quintessence of simplicity in effect, though they may be complicated in cut. Fur is almost banished as a trim. Trim black or navy blue redingotes, high waisted empire coats and mannish chesterfields hold the spotlight, and often are worn with a rich silk ascot scarf.

Suits will step out, too, in great variety on Easter morning.

MRS. HASENYAGER SURPRISED WITH BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Anna Haseenyager's birthday anniversary didn't pass unnoticed yesterday, for in the afternoon her home at 622 Eastwood road was stormed by a group of friends who met at the invitation of Mrs. George Haseenyager and Miss Wilma Ventner to surprise her with a party.

Chatting and fancy work passed the time pleasantly. A large decorated birthday cake was served with ice cream by the two hostesses.

Guests also included Mesdames Iva Dillings, Guy Baker, Dorothy Reuter, Maymie Case, Louisa Webber, Janet Burrier Mary Kuhl, Maude Dietrich and Leona Dietrich and Misses Margaret Kuhl, Emma Ventner, Anna Ventner and Eleanor Case.

MILDRED STAPLES IS BREAKFAST HOSTESS

Miss Mildred Staples entertained Sunday at her home in Irvine with an Easter breakfast for a group of girls who attended the wedding of Miss Dorothy Lindsey and Robert Callis at Magolia park. The group included Beta Sigma Phi, the sisters of Miss Lindsey, and also complimented Miss Staples' houseguest, Miss Virginia Ballard of Santa Barbara.

Present were Misses Lucie McDermott, Isabelle Stracusa, Lena Mae Wilsey, Jean Ena, Mary Louise Wallace, Lillian McDonald, Mary Ford, Elsie Siemsen, Marie Labrucherie, Delphina Lopez and Hazel Lee.

MRS. BELL'S PLAY TO BE ENACTED

Quilting and sewing will be morning occupations of the Baptist Women's society tomorrow. The groups meet at 10 a. m. at the church for an all-day session.

Following pot-luck lunch, "Inasmuch," a playlet written by Mrs. E. A. Bell and directed by Mrs. Earl Morris, will be presented as part of a White Cross program.

B. L. BARNETT IS HONORED AT PARTY

B. L. Barnett, whose birthday anniversary was yesterday, was feted Sunday with a family dinner party given in his home at 1302 South Van Ness street.

The day was spent informally in visiting, with his children gathered around the birthday celebrant.

Mary Stoddard "Other Woman" Contributes Her Views to Discussion of Eternal Triangle

By MARY STODDARD
Marriage loses its glamor, thinks an "other woman" with the nerve to write in about "respecting" the home of her married sweetheart. Being clandestine insures the "gloss" of her romance, she feels. What does her affair do to romance for the wife? Isn't it because of women like "Virginia" that marriage dulls?

Of course she doesn't want to see him unshaven and be seen with her hair in curlers. Not while she can have the best of his attentions, without any sacrifice on her part.

It's selfishness, not respect for his home, that motivates the "other woman."

Dear Miss Stoddard: After reading letters in your column about the eternal triangle I've kept still as long as I can, for you see, I happen to be the "other woman."

I'm deeply in love with a married man, but not for anything would I exchange places with his wife. I want our love to endure. Marriage as a rule, not always, seems to rub the beautiful gloss off of romance and after a few short months or years they look at each other just as ordinary human beings—no thrills whatever left.

I've known my married sweetheart for nearly 10 years and we are more in love now than when first we discovered life wouldn't mean a thing without being able to see each other often, but not so often we might tire of each other. I, for one, don't want his wife to know anything about our affair, so "Old Bach" is wrong—there ARE women who respect a man's home.

VIRGINIA.

FURNISHINGS TO BE TOPIC OF TALK TOMORROW

Miss Edith Hynes, Los Angeles, consultant in interior decoration will speak Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock in the Willard library, 1342 North Ross street. Her subject will be "Today's Trends in Houses and Furnishings."

She will suggest ways of choosing today what we can go on liking through the years, although seasonal styles feature new designs and decorations from the old.

Today clear contrasts are in vogue, contrasts of line, of color and of value. Houses in modern simplified line and the more popular California Farmhouses both call for their own particular interpretation of color and design. Miss Hynes will show colorings and materials suitable for both types and will show how to bring the older houses up to date.

MRS. LINDEGARD IS HOSTESS TO DRILL TEAM

Mrs. Mae Lindgard entertained American Legion Auxiliary drill team members Friday evening at her home, 1137 South Garney street, after regular drill practice at the Lathrop junior high school. The group decided to have a rummage sale Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 114 East Fourth street, under management of Lucille Sullivan.

Drill team members present included Alta Marsile, Evelyn Imhoff, Emma Penn, Alice Roehm, Alice Dodder, Lucille Sullivan, Ruth Anderson, Frances Sullivan, Fay Munix, Ida McCarty, Rossan Hardcastle, Myrtle Swarthout, Berna Mercer, Gladys Young Pearl Christiansen, Tonya Sandon and the hostess.

SOCIAL GROUP MEETS FOR SUPPER, CARDS AT MYERS HOME

For jolly companionship and a good picnic dinner, 10 "past chief oods" of the Rebekahs gathered Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nannie Myers, 719 Lyon street. After a pot-luck supper, the congenial group played pinocle and bridge.

Members of the party were the Messrs. and Mesdames R. T. Campbell, Inglewood; W. L. Russell, San Pedro; R. H. Ahlgren, Van Nuys; A. M. Toimie, Inglewood, and the Mesdames Lydia Phillips, M. A. Van de Water and Nannie Meyers.

ANAHEIM RESIDENTS GO TO NEW JERSEY

Miss Alice Bloodgood, pretty brunette Anaheim girl, and her brother Bill, left Anaheim Sunday night with their aunt, Miss Marian Bloodgood, to go to her home at Point Pleasant, N. J., and spend the summer.

They are making the trip by boat through the Panama canal. Phipps, M. A. Van de Water and Nannie Meyers.

BRIDGE CLUB HAS PARTY AT L. B.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Cook's home in Long Beach was the scene of a dinner party of their bridge club Saturday evening.

Guests included Messrs. and Mesdames C. Harold Dale, George Spielman and George Walker. The Dales will be hosts to the club next month.

Kappa Dance At Beach Is Triumph

Kappas scored a huge success with their semi-formal dance Saturday evening in the Long Beach municipal country club. Corsages went as favors to the girl-guests.

A two-course buffet supper was served.

Seen dancing were Miss Patty Rapp in clever black satin with tailored white collar... Mrs. Joe Irwin in pale pink tunic and pleated skirt... Miss Martha Wallford in red crepe with gold flowers... Miss Jean Rowland in black velvet with embroidered tunic accented in sariel.

Mrs. William Jerome, Jr., in blue taffeta coat over white... Miss Betty Rowland in green crepe with gold clips and hair ornament... Mrs. Stanley Norton in gray-blue with American beauty trim... Mrs. Emrys White in apple green lace with a slight train effect... Mrs. Stewart McPherson in ashes of roses with a violet hair ornament... Miss Evelyn Hutton in blue taffeta with square neckline... Mrs. Crawford Nalle in quantity pretty white lace gown... Miss Ruth Owens in light green... Miss Elizabeth Smith in blue organdie, white-dotted.

Mrs. Gerald Runnels in ashes of roses gown... Miss Eleanor Metzgar in deep blue dinner dress... Miss Eleanor Morton in turquoise satin... Miss Bernice Rathbun, black taffeta... Mrs. Paul Snow, her small blondness set off by an apple green gown... Miss Eunice Spicer in midnight blue.

Responding to the plea of the Red Cross, Mrs. W. D. Jones, president of the California Federation of Women's clubs, is making a state-wide appeal to clubwomen to support the present relief campaign and send their voluntary contributions to local Red Cross chapters.

"The need is most urgent," she stated, "and I know that California clubwomen can be relied upon to do their share."

Admiral Grayson, National Red Cross chairman, has reported 89,500 families affected by the eastern floods in 15 states, representing double the number of needy families since the Red Cross chapters were assigned quotas to $3,000,000 relief fund, March 19. In view of this serious situation, Admiral Grayson has asked each Red Cross chapter to raise at least 50 per cent over its quota.

SLOW RALLY PUTS STOCK SHARES UP

By VICTOR EUBANK
NEW YORK, March 31. (AP)—The stock market today put on a crawling rally.

With the ticker tape moving only a foot or so a minute during the greater part of the session, a few buyers lifted some of the steels, motors, rails and specialties fractions to around 3 points.

Traders were fairly optimistic, brokers said, but most lacked the courage of their convictions so far as active participation was concerned.

Among the principal share gainers near the start of the fourth hour were Case, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Midland Steel Products General Motors, Chrysler, Safeway Stores, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Bendix, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Western Union, International Nickel, Anaconda, N. Y. Central and Santa Fe. Many issues were unchanged and there were scattered losers. Johnsonville was off 3 and Fajardo sugar and Union Pacific yielded more than a point each.

The French franc fell back after an early recovery. Bonds exhibited a steadier tone.

Grain Market

CHICAGO, March 31. (AP)—Lurching down almost 3 cents a bushel, wheat today smashed season low price records for new crop futures, July and September.

Snowfalls this afternoon in Kansas, together with prospects of plentiful further supplies of moisture tonight and tomorrow, both in Nebraska and Kansas, were expected to end protracted drought that has been imperiling wheat crops. Breaks in wheat values were in the face of news that Canadian wheat exports today totaled about 1,000,000 bushels.

Wheat closed weak, 13-2 1/2¢ under yesterday's finish. May 95 1/2-95 3/4¢, July 85 1/2-85 3/4¢, corn 1 1/4-1 1/2¢ down. May 60-60 1/2¢, oats 1/2-1/2¢ off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 15¢.

TWIN BILL AT WEST COAST

Baring the terrors, prisoners are subjected to in a penal institution run by grafting politicians, the new drama of stark realism, "Road Gang," opens today at the West Coast theater with a second feature, "Song and Dance Man," comedy drama.

Besides the terrifying aspects of "Road Gang," there is a glowing romance of a girl who sticks by her man even when he is convicted of a crime, and who battles for his release until she wins his freedom. The cast includes Donald Woods, Ray Linker, Carlyle Moore, Jr., Henry O'Neill and Joseph King.

"Song and Dance Man" is the modernized version of George M. Cohan's famous stage success. The film is a drama of the quiet self-sacrifice of a lam-and-egg song and dance man whose girl had a chance to make the big time if he stepped out of the picture. In the cast are such players as Claire Trevor, Paul Kelly and Michael Whalen.

False Teeth Done'r Bring True Music; Saxophonist Sues

WAUKEGAN, Ill., March 31. (AP)—Ever since he had seven teeth knocked out in an automobile accident, Arnold Prusi told the jury, his saxophone playing had been "fuzzy." He blamed it on the false teeth which replaced his lost ones.

The jury awarded a $4,000 verdict against the driver of the other car.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, March 31. (AP)—The firmness of steels and specialties gave a lift to stock market sentiment today, and selected issues moved up fractions to 2 points, and a few as much as 4 or 5.

Trading was about as dull as in the preceding session, however, and a few of the recent leaders backed away before profit-taking. The close was firm. Transfers approximated 1,100,000 shares. Closing prices:

'PAY-OFF' COMES TO WALKER'S

Showing for the first time in Santa Ana, "The Pay-Off" will be featured at Walker's State theater tomorrow, starting an engagement of two days, together with a second feature, "The Return of Peter Grimm."

James Dunn, Claire Dodd and Patricia Ellis are starred in "The Pay-Off," which tells the story of an honest sports reporter's thrilling adventures in his battle to eliminate a band of gamblers who are making millions by fixing all kinds of sports events. The gamblers are unable to fix the sports reporter either by bribery or intimidation until his chiseling wife double-crosses him and gets him so deeply into debt that he has to quit attacking them to save his reputation.

Dunn plays the role of the sports reporter, Miss Dodd as his wife and Miss Ellis as a fellow reporter in love with him. Others in the cast include James Crehan, Frankie Darro, Alan Dinehart, Frank Sheridan and Eddie Shubert.

Lionel Barrymore is the star of "The Return of Peter Grimm." It is the story of a man who returned from the spirit world to redeem the mess he had made of life. In the cast with him are Helen Mack, Edward Ellis and Donald Meek.

Also on the bill is a short subject, starring Buster West in "Vitaphone Casino."

Sheriff Who Barred Bum Blockaders Urged for Governor

ALTURA, Cal., March 31. (AP)—Sheriff John C. Sharp, Democrat, of Modoc county, today had received many letters urging him to run for governor of California, following his recent tilt with Sheriff James E. Davis of Los Angeles over that city's border patrol activities against itinerants.

Sharp has received an average of 20 letters daily since Feb. 5, the day after he refused to deputize Los Angeles police.

Swagger Suit That's Easy To Knit

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

An Exclusive Model in Knitting

PATTERN 5562
PRIZED POSSESSION!—this swagger suit, to knit, and wear and revel in, from this season forth! It's easy to make, too, for plain skirt and swagger jacket are done mainly in stockinette stitch, with a simple waffle stitch for cuffs and yoke. You'll love it in colorful, Germantown wool.
In pattern 5562 you will find complete instructions for making the swagger suit shown in sizes 16-18 and 38-40; an illustration of it and of all the stitches needed; material requirements.
To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Journal, Household Arts Dept., 117 East Fifth Street, Santa Ana. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and

This Deserves Study

SHOULD local firemen and policemen be compelled to pass an examination for fitness and training before they are placed on the payroll?

Should they receive their promotions and pay increases for definite services in line of duty?

Should their jobs be put on a basis where political opinions and religious beliefs cannot affect them?

Should they undergo a period of probation before being given regular jobs?

Should they be freed from fear of discharge except for reasons involving inefficiency, misconduct or insubordination?

These questions and similar ones have come before Santa Ana taxpayers as the city council studies a proposal to install civil service on the fire and police forces here.

Civil service—which has meant so much to the employees of the federal government—has its friends and its enemies. Those who oppose it say that it gives a lifetime job to civil personnel. Those who favor it deny this charge, and point out that under civil service the employees of government are freed from the "spoils system" and the taxpayers do not have to stand the expense and inefficiency resulting from training a group of green hands, as is sometimes the case whenever a new administration takes office.

The civil service ordinance merits the fair and careful consideration of the council and the taxpayers. It may offer benefits that would be decidedly worthwhile for all concerned.

The Right to Vote

THE PEOPLE of Germany have just voted indorsement of Adolf Hitler's remilitarization of the Rhineland. But it wasn't at a real election. For in a real election the voter may choose between at least two candidates, or two issues.

In the German vote there was just one circle on the ballot in which a cross could be placed. That cross indicated approval of Hitler's policies. Otherwise the citizen could not vote.

Irrespective of the merits of Hitlerism, such a complete disregard of the wishes of the people can hardly be understood here in America, where the right of everyone to vote is taken for granted.

This loss of franchise by the German people is a present day tendency in the Old World. In Russia, less than a quarter of the adult population has voting privileges. In Italy, Mussolini has just announced that there will be no more parliament elected by the people.

In America, it is customary for newspapers to run editorials, urging people to vote, only before elections. This newspaper does so.

The great danger lies in the fact that the right to vote is considered so elementary that the voters do not keep a constant watch against those who would infringe on it.

Consider the tragic examples of the Old World people who have been deprived of the precious right to choose who shall rule them. If you will remember those who can't vote, you will be more inclined to take advantage of your own individual power as a voter.

Aesop Would Like This

WHEREIN two news items make one editorial: Washington, D. C.—Senator Wheeler of Montana, telling how some lawyers and lobbyists work their racket, says: "They make a living by scaring business men with misinterpretations of proposed legislation. Then, although the bill may be passed in its original form, they take credit for eliminating objectionable features which never existed except in the lobbyist's mind."

Oklahoma City, Okla.—Postmaster W. G. Johnston, telling how he rid the federal building of rats, says: "We caught five or six big rats in wire traps—caught them alive. We took a blow torch and singed them good. We didn't singe the front of them because we wanted them to keep their sight. We burned their tails, then turned them loose. The word spread like wildfire. The rats must have a swell underground grapevine."

Of Course We Will

A CROSS the continent the call still comes from the American Red Cross for more financial aid for the flood sufferers in the east.

Santa Ana already is near fulfillment of its $1800 quota. But the emergency which exists has been augmented by new floods, and it is now necessary that this quota be oversubscribed if proper aid is to be given.

When a special call, such as this one, comes to us, the fact that we already have given something or are paying for relief in taxes makes no difference. We stand ready, every and every one of us, to do what we can for needy humanity.

When the West has needed aid the East has always helped. Santa Ana stands ready to do its part.

Let's Wait for the Facts

A FOG of uncertainty clouds the issue in the federal proposal for flood control and water conservation along the Santa Ana river. Associated Press and United Press dispatches from Washington state that the project involves Orange county. Local water interests fear that this is not true, and that the project will benefit Riverside county to the detriment of this area.

The financial end of the $13,000,000 proposal also is in a haze. Some sources assert the government will foot the whole bill, others say that Orange county will be asked to contribute nearly $3,500,000 toward the total.

The matter is of too great importance to jump to hasty conclusions. Let's get all the facts and then decide.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

Jimmy Walker's lease of an 11-room duplex along a fashionable strip of the East Seventieth's end, as to the persistence of his location. Rumors had him returning to England, occupying a ranch in California and exiling himself in California.

One thing is certain, Walker on longer thrills the chandeliers blaze brightest. He has attended two or three banquets for old times' sake, always with his wife by his side and sticking solely to a tippie of milk and seltzer. His cigar consumption is three days.

There is little doubt he has improved physically. But almost the invariable observation of those who have seen him close up is: "He still looks tired." His attitude is shrinking, indeed wincing, on the few occasions at the theatre when spontaneous ovations developed.

His speeches that have been broadcast reveal unmistakably he has abandoned the left motif of his oratory—the wise crack. A deadly seriousness has come into his voice and manner. One suspects he desires above all to be let alone.

Park avenue's benign sidewalk book reader, a white-haired Mark Twainish fellow, has been an around four o'clock figure in the 40's and 50's for several years. He moves slowly, his book before him and his lips mumble. He stops reading only when he comes to crossings. Today I edged up and peeked. He was reading "Up Stream," by Ludwig Lewisohn.

As one who can only read in bed after retiring for the night, the modus operandi of other readers interests me especially. The late John McE. Bowman, hotel man, eating alone, read a volume of fiction. Charles Norris seldom takes his eyes from a book, crossing the continent. It's his way of catching up. The famous Lily Langtry liked to read Shakespeare walking about from room to room and declaiming at times. Arthur Hopkins is always buried in a book during the confusion of a line's auction pool. Clemenceau rose at 6 to read an hour before breakfast.

One of New York's most stately drug stores is on Third Avenue just before it becomes The Bowery. Thoroughly old timey, its shelves are lined with jars bearing enameled labels with abbreviated Latin inscriptions. The red and green hairbrushes, the only window decorations. The store is a vast echoing room, done in light oak and clerks suggest the soft-voiced elderly librarians found almost everywhere. The old fashioned glass show cases reveal only the articles we used to purchase at the drug store—hair brushes, combs, spectacle cases, memorandum books, lead pencils and tablets. I am told many great physicians request their prescriptions be filled there.

Discussions as to who is the stage's First Lady occupies many over the coffee cup conversations these days. There appears no doubt that there are only two deserving contenders—Katharine Cornell and Helen Hayes. For several seasons Miss Cornell has held the field against all comers. Miss Hayes' performance in the role of Queen Victoria this season puts her distinctly in the running. After dinner last night, for instance, Miss Cornell was first by two votes, winning six out of 10. Her current role in Shaw's "St. Joan" is an artistic triumph. Incidentally, George M. Cohan recently billed himself as "America's Stage Actor."

At the same dinner I heard the squeal perfect for the careless book borrower. She cooed to another lady she was distressed over not being able to find a book the lady loaned her weeks before. She professed to have looked everywhere to no avail. After she had decided she could not think of another place to look, the owner observed just a shade icily: "There's always Brentano's."

A letter from a gentleman in Kentucky today dares me to make a certain comment. I took the dare pledge in 1920. Before the lion's cage in the Cincinnati zoo there stood a Willie off the pickle boat in white ducks and sailor hat with red band. Don Allen dared me to speak up, clutch his hip and bark like a dog. I did. Willie gave an horrible scream and turned. The next I knew they had propped me up against a set of stone steps of the administration building and were pouring water over me.

CULINARY HATE
A food we hate is Tapicore.
We think it's simply Medicore.

The old-fashioned porch swing had its advantages. You never crashed into a telephone pole when you leaned over to kiss your sweetie.

At that, it is much easier to dodge automobiles than to dodge automobile payments.

EVERYDAY MOVIES

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The attitude of the New Deal toward agricultural labor and tenant farmers has changed. Both are now recognized as among the most important agricultural problems confronting the administration.

One year ago, Victor Christgau, assistant administrator of the AAA, was dismissed by Henry Wallace for meeting with tenant farmers and agricultural laborers at the home of Gardner Jackson, also dismissed from the AAA. Last week, Henry Wallace and other high AAA officials received a delegation from the radical Southern Tenant Farmers Union to discuss the plight of thousands of dispossessed farmers. Gardner Jackson, previously dismissed, arranged the conference.

What the share-croppers propose is an amendment to the Wagner labor disputes act, enlarging its scope to include agricultural labor disputes.

Rex Tugwell and his resettlement officials also favor this. The plan, if adopted, would create a new division in the labor department to handle farm labor.

NOTE—Miss Perkins, incidentally, has been lukewarm about getting mixed up in farm labor rows. She was pushed into the plan of sending an arbitrator to adjust the share-cropper war in Arkansas, shed no tears when Vice President Garner blocked the plan as being against the interests of Senator Robinson of Arkansas.

POLITICAL PAST-MASTER
The President was discussing his Canadian treaty at dinner the other night with Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric Co.

"I certainly stuck my neck out on cream and milk in that Canadian treaty, didn't I, Owen?" the President remarked, "especially in St. Lawrence county."

St. Lawrence county, N. Y., happens to be the birthplace of Mr. Young. Also it is a heavy producer of milk and cream, on which the tariff is lowered for competing Canadian dairy products.

"Yes," Mr. Young replied, "and in all three of those northern New York counties."

"But," laughed the President, "there's hardly a Democratic vote up there."

"Yes," replied Mr. Young. "I was about to remark that you would lose about seven votes in Northern New York as a result of that treaty."

FIRST GOVERNMENT GAZETTE
When the initial issue of the government's first newspaper, "The Official Register" was published, only 50 copies were run off the press.

Of these, 48 were destroyed. Of the two remaining, one was given to the President, one to the library of congress.

Reason: The scandal caused when Jim Farley gave away some first-run postage stamps has sent jitters down New Deal spines. Officials were afraid first copies of the Official Register might bring fabulous sums.

MERRY-GO-ROUND
President Roosevelt is having a quiet check made of government broadcasting. Carrying out his personal instruction, the national emergency council has sent a confidential questionnaire to all department and bureau heads requesting information on the number, nature and cost of radio programs sponsored by the government during the past year. Inside word is that these broadcasts have become so numerous that politicians complain they cannot obtain desirable time on the air. . . . It's an ill wind that blows good. . . . Before the recent floods, the house cut the soil erosion service's 1937 appropriation from $27,500,000 to $22,500,000. After the floods, the senate appropriations committee upped the grant to $32,500,000. . . . One of the facts suppressed by Secretary Dan Roper, concerning incompetence in the maritime agencies of his department, is the reason why the S. S. Iowa went down off the Pacific Coast recently with all hands on board. The ship foundered on a shoal which was supposed to be marked with a gas buoy. After the tragedy the buoy was found on the beach four miles from the danger point. . . . The success of walnut growers in obtaining an export subsidy from the agriculture department, despite the vehement protests of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, has inspired citrus raisers to demand a similar handout. Their plan calls for a government grant of $1,000,000 to subsidize the shipment abroad of 2,000,000 boxes of oranges and grapefruit. . . . Rex Tugwell has employed Pare Lorentz, well-known movie critic, to put his resettlement administration in the films. Suggested title: "It Never Happened Here."

MAIL BAG
E. W. P., Swarthmore, Pa.—Mrs. Roosevelt uses army horses, usually rides through Rock Creek park. She drives out to the park, meets the horses there. Traffic around the White House is too heavy for riding. Horses once were kept in the White House stables, but Calvin Coolidge did away with this, installed an electric horse in the attic. . . . D. V. K., Akron, Ohio.—Both major broadcasting systems are a trifle worried over the fact that they turned down the Republican national committee's request for free radio time, but are giving time to broadcasts by the bureau of education. . . . L. B. Ann Arbor, Mich.—The public debt as of the latter part of March is $31,445,000,000. Simultaneously the government has about $10,000,000,000 of gold in its strong boxes. Against all of this gold except about half a billion, paper currency has been issued. The public debt is in the form of bonds, and has behind it no gold, only credit.

C. M. K., Huntington, Pa.—Government legal experts believe that the fate of the railroad pension act before the supreme court depends very much on whether Roosevelt re-elected. If so, they believe the court probably will not care to face another four years warring with him; therefore will support the pension act, as well as other New Deal legislation.

REMARKABLE REMARKS

A little guide should be written for young men, warning them that they are not safe from a breach of promise action merely because they have not proposed to the woman. She might have taken something they said as a proposal.—Justice Hilbery, English judge.

These "veterans" demand immediate payment of a $1000 bonus due in June, 1935, with accrued interest of 6 per cent compounded backward to June 1933. They say this will "lift the country out of the depression" and will give them a chance to enjoy the bonus before they are slain in battle. They also propose trips abroad for the "Gold Star Mothers" so they may see the "prospective graves of their future sons."

All of which is a subtle thrust at the war-mongers. It emphasizes foresight rather than hindsight. It pictures debts, graves, dying men, weeping mothers. It assumes another colossal folly to follow the last one. It accepts peace as merely a breathing spell between exhaustive periods of conflict. It holds that you are doomed to repeat the stupid actions of their fathers. That men never learn anything. That they must continue to be the helpless victims of vengeful hate and murderous lust.

It assumes that mothers go through the "valley of the shadow of death" that their sons may flower forth into cannon-fodder. That ties of affection are woven only to be snapped asunder. That shifts from heaven must feed the fires of hell. That the light of progress must be smothered in the blackness of darkness. The very rawness of the proposals which these youthful "veterans" submit must laugh the war-god out of favor.

Resourceful students at Princeton have done something to make war a joke. They have organized themselves into "The Veterans of Future Wars," with national posts throughout the country as their ambition. . . . Women in Vassar college have sympathetically formed the first chapter of an auxiliary society. They call themselves the Association of Gold Star Mothers of Veterans of Future Wars.

MERCY MURDER

To the Editor: How the scene does change. I note where a professor in a Methodist college advocates the elimination of the hopelessly insane from the community by the state so that these drags on the fit will not drain the taxpayer for the huge costs of asylums, institutions and hospitals. All the professor forgot was to renew the old proposal to eliminate the regular inmates in prison, thus providing new outlets for use of this surplus electric power the West is worrying about.

Now I am not going to quarrel with the pious professor as to the merits of his program. I long years since decided that it was indecent to keep brutes in the prison who were your own operator and you didn't cuss him. Boy, they've gone a long way since that time in scientific advancement. Now you can phone any place any time, get an occasional wrong number but the percentage of accuracy is all in your favor. Guess the telephone girls will like that one.

Most of the policemen I know went to the circus, but there was the usual crew on duty to give you the whistle if you attempted to ignore traffic signals.

Nat Neff couldn't resist reflecting on those boyhood days when the circus came to town. It was either carry water for the elephant or adopt the underground method of getting in under the tent. He insists that on two occasions he had help, but they lacked sympathy.

Won't be long now before wild flower trips will be calling you. You'll find them in the Antelope valley, Arvin district, Mojave desert, the Mt. Baldy loop, Ojai valley, Palm Springs and the San Bernardino mountains, and later on if some of my friends bring me in a bunch of them you can see 'em at my house. Now that's a real hint.

Don't tell me it wasn't circus day. I had more application for passes than there was seating capacity. Just because a fellow is identified with a newspaper doesn't mean that transportation is free and unlimited. Many a time when I was with a newspaper the only thing about the circus that was free to me was the parade, and later on darned if they didn't take that enjoyment away from me.

It's all right with me if people want to travel by bus, but when a fast moving passenger train takes one and lifts it off the right of way, well, I rather be inside the Pullman. You get a much better chance to tell your betters what happened.

The modern circus makes me think of the Hollywood divorcee. Too many rings.

My friends who are carrying home garden tools, should take into account the neighbors' chickens. Very often they are an important element in the planting of a garden. I know a party who put in a garden and the chickens arrived the same time the seeds started to sprout. He was so mad he threw a hoe at the chickens and ruined his wife's flower garden. After that experience he decided to get his vegetables at the market and let some other fellow throw the hoe. Every little hobby has its troubles all its own.

If Bill Majors does not desist in his attempts to run me down at insurrection in am going to write to his dad in Circleville, Ohio, and tell him about the kind of a son he has out here in cloudy California. Guess that ought to yield resolutions of censor from the chamber of commerce.

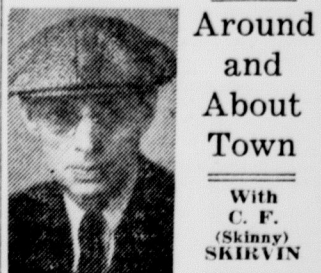

It should not be difficult for Orange county to raise $500 more to complete her quota for the Red Cross to be used for the flood sufferers. These contributions should be spontaneous. What's the use going to the trouble of public entertainment for an object of mercy. You'll have to buy a ticket anyway. Why not flip in your money without being entertained. If it's a mercy call, and it is, why do we have to be compensated in order to persuade us to part with the small sum required to meet our quota? Let's give voluntarily.

Next time spring comes in with some arrangement could be made to bring an overcoat with it.

Well, I didn't help either unload or load the circus. My understanding is they had a full complement of men to do that work, and they didn't even ask for advice. Circuses are quite independent in their operation. If the public buys the tickets the management will attend to the rest of the performance.

Usually you can get a bet on most any proposition. I've been trying to promote a wager on the amount of rain for the month of April. Wilbur Wasser has agreed to come through with the umbrella, provided the rainfall is satisfactory. He won't be content with just a shower. He wants a major storm. Oh, say, a few inches less than 10 during the month. That would be worth something to the orange grower. And if the rain comes latter part of May it won't be worth anything to the bean growers. In other words in Orange county we want rain when we want it. Try and get it that way if you can.

Skinny Skribbles

Around and About Town
With C. F. SKRIBVIN

The telephone exhibit moved out of town yesterday. It was a revelation to many who became acquainted with the extent of this means of communication. Remember away back when you tied a string to tin cans and tried to talk to the kid on the other end? And the old wall phone when you did your own ringing. That's what you were your own operator and you didn't cuss him. Boy, they've gone a long way since that time in scientific advancement. Twenty-Five Years Ago

MARCH 31, 1911

Mesdames T. A. Winbiger, M. A. Yarnell and J. W. Shaul were guests yesterday at the home of Mrs. Leo Goepfer at Balboa Beach.

Following is a list of nominations for city offices filed with the city clerk for the municipal election to be held April 10: City clerk, William F. Menton; marshal, James P. Calahan; L. M. Edwards, George S. Wilson; city attorney, Steele Finley, William F. Heathman; treasurer, Hiram D. Connell, Lou P. Hickox.

Mrs. J. B. Ramsey entertained yesterday at an old fashion carpet sewing and quilting, a sumptuous dinner being served the guests at noon. Those present were Mesdames James Robinson, Nelson Turner, Sidney Lyle, Verne Flagg, Bert Crozier, Will Crissman, Cash Ramsey, Misses Vida Mitchell, Carra and Alice Ramsey.

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Because state laws do not permit cities of the sixth class to issue bonds for the purpose of obtaining funds to build wharves or piers into the ocean, the city has been precluded from building wharves or piers here. However, through the efforts of City Attorney Rush M. Blodgett, a new bill was introduced in Sacramento and passed by both houses, making it possible to sell bonds for the purpose of constructing the pier. The bill now awaits the signature of the governor.

The Mount Mellick club met yesterday afternoon with Miss Mima Menges, and the afternoon was enjoyed with fancy work. A dozen ladies were present. In the shower of postcards was sent to a member, Mrs. George Smith.

One Man's Opinion

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

'Veterans of Future Wars' Poke at War Monogers

It is more deadly than attack, more dangerous than force. War has been attacked by reason and argument. Everybody admits that it is stupid, beastly, useless. Everybody insists that he wants to keep out of it, that nothing will drag America into it. Yet everybody accepts war as inevitable and works himself into a frenzy of war. Now comes ridicule to show that war is utterly silly, preposterous and the last word in absurdity.

Resourceful students at Princeton have done something to make war a joke. They have organized themselves into "The Veterans of Future Wars," with national posts throughout the country as their ambition. . . . Women in Vassar college have sympathetically formed the first chapter of an auxiliary society. They call themselves the Association of Gold Star Mothers of Veterans of Future Wars.

These "veterans" demand immediate payment of a $1000 bonus due in June, 1935, with accrued interest of 6 per cent compounded backward to June 1933. They say this will "lift the country out of the depression" and will give them a chance to enjoy the
